Smogless, gas-saving engine possible by 1985?

PASADENA (AP) - A massive development effort by the auto industry and the government could put a smogless, gas-saving engine on the road by 1985, concludes a Ford Motor Co.-financed study.

A team of scientists from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory released its report Wednesday, saying the 18month. $500:000 study was independent of any industry influence.

Cars using the new engines would virtually cease to be sources of pollution, said Dr. R. Rhoads Stephenson, head of the 20-member team.

They could run on various liquid fuels so efficiently that the nation's energy consumption due to Study claims major development effort by U.S., auto industry could produce one automobiles would be cut by 30 to 45 per cent, he said

At current gas prices, he said, this would mean an annual savings of some $8 billion or more.

These benefits would make the five-to-seven-year, $1 billion development program well worth the effort, said Stephenson, whose team studied nine types of engines in the United States. Europe and Japan.

"If the price of fuel stays high or goes higher, and gas availability remains a problem, the industry might decide to pursue this course voluntarily." he said. But the high cost of development probably would have to be underwritten in part by the federal government, he said.

There was no immediate comment from Ford or other car makers, or the government.

Even though Ford, like the other manufacturers, is currently committed to the conventional internal combustion energy. Ford funded the study "because they've been under pressure from Congress and other people in Washington to make a transition to a new type of engine," the researcher said in an interview.

The study team settled on two designs for the engine of the future. both in existence now but not ready for production. The Brayton gas turbine and the Stirling engine should be developed simultaneously until one proves clearly superior, the scientists recommended.

The Brayton makes use of compressed gas that is torced through a turbine wheel to turn a drive shaft.

In the Stirling engine, a burner heats a compressed gas that is piped to cylinders containing pistons. which in turn cause a wobble plate to rotate the drive shaft.

One reason for the efficiency, Stephenson explained, is that part of the heat prducee is captured and returned to the system to be used

The researchers estimated that the Brayton would cost the car buyer engine, with the Stirling carrying a price tag about $300 higher.

However, this cost difference would be easily recovered by the first owner in fuel savings," said Stephenson. He said the engines could run on petroleum products ranging from gasoline to cruder fuels such as kerosene.

The report had recommendations for improving efficiency of presentday cars until the new engines are available. These included making them smaller and lighter and improving automatic transmissions so that less power is wasted through sl-

SUSPECT

This police sketch shows the latest witness description of one of the greasepaint bandits suspected of robbing at least nine small stores and service stations in the valley area since Aug. 27.

'Greasepaint bandits' hit area again

Two gunmen dubbed the 'greasepaint bandits' pulled off what is believed to be their ninth robbery within a week in the valley area Wednesday night with a holdup at an Ontario market.

Police in valley cities have alerted small market clerks and service station attendants to be on the lookout for the robbers, who have been described as having grease or grease paint on their faces.

Both of the robbers, according to the witnesses are Caucasians about 30, short in stature

In each of the nine robberies one of the men has entered the store, shopped around, picking up various items waiting for a chance to approach the clerk alone.

The robber pulls a small black handgun and a paper bag, either telling the clerk to hand over the cash, or passing a note saying, something like. "This is a robbery, gimme the money and you won't be harmed."

In the latest robbery Wednesday might, a man with greasepaint on his face, wearing a green fatigue hat walked into the Seven-11 store at I Street and Mountain Avenue in Ontario. The man was immediately recognized by the store clerk, Bertie Ollis, as matching the description of one of the "greasepaint robbers" given in the local newspapers, but was unable to call police because of other customers in the store.

Mrs. Ollis, hoping to alert one of the customers to the robber walking around in the store, began to tell her customers she had no money or no change. She said some of the customers got mad and left, but one buying beer left the store, went across the street and got some change from a service station and returned to purchase the beer.

For nearly 45 minutes the robber had walked around the store before approaching the counter carrying a number of items, including packages of razor blades and motor oil. Mrs. Ollis said the man reached into his wallet and pulled out a note, telling her to give him the money

She complied when the man pulled a small black revolver from his

Teacher strikes idle 700,000 pupils in at least 10 states

Illinois, Pennsylvania are among hardest hit

By JAMES M. DONNA Associated Press Writer

More than 700,000 children were out of school today as striking teachers in at least 10 states balked at contract-offeres by school districts and stood on the picket line instead of in the classroom.

The disputed issues which kept some 40,000 teachers away from school included wages, class size, rollbacks from previous contracts. job security, cost-of-living increases. textbook policies and fringe bene-

The states hit the hardest were Illinois where 565,500 pupils were affected and Pennsylvania, where 137.800 children were out of school.

Smaller strikes were scattered across the country as school officials and teachers' representives grappled with new contracts. Public schools in Chicago, the nation's third largest school district, remain closed today despite latenight negotiations between the school board and representatives of some 26,000 striking teachers. The Chicago School Board was called in late Wednesday to meet with the board's negotiators in an attempt to remove several obstacles blocking the way toward a new contract and reopening of the schools for some 530,000 pupils.

The teachers turned down an offer Wednesday to extend their recentlyexpired contract.

Schools Supt. Joseph P. Hannon, who does not take over officially until later this month, said school board attorneys may file suit seeking an injunction against the union to stop the strike. Hannon added, though, that the board had not made any final decision on such an injunc-

The first day of classes was canceled Wednesday after teachers voted 21,429 to 2,537 to go on strike. A spokesman for the Board of Education said that only 764 of its 27,188 teachers turned up for work.

In Pennsylvania about 24 of the state's 505 school districts were stalled by teacher strikes and another 122 districts still have not reached wage agreements By today, about 7,200 teachers had walked off the job, affecting 137,800 students. There were strikes in 23 districts and another seven systems decided to close their doors until there was a contract agreement. The main issues are salary, fringe benefits, teaching hours, class size, charges that school boards wanted to eliminate gains won in previous contracts, and hours required for nonteaching duties.

Fifteen of the walkouts began Wednesday, including Allentown with 20,000 pupils and Reading with 14,500.

The largest struck district is Baldwin-Whitehall in Allegheny County, with 93,000 pupils. The longest strike began Aug. 25 at rural South Huntingdon, with 1,800 stu-

Manager of OIA promoted to L.A

Robert M. Hamilton Jr., manager of Ontario International Airport, has been appointed manager of Los Angeles International Airport.

The emergency appointment, effective Oct. 1, was made by Clifford A. Moore, general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports, with approval from the City Personnel Department. Hamilton will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of James R. Mettler who accepted a position as aviation director of San Jose. Hamilton has served as manager of OIA since Nov. 1, 1967 when the City of Los Angeles took over operation of that airport under a jointpowers agreement with the City of Ontario. He had been assistant director of aviation and airport manager at Ontario from 1960 to 1967, joining the staff after having served as superintendent of operations at LAX for 11 years.

John H. Dickinson, manager of Van Nuys Airport for 12 years, will be transferred to Ontario to take over Hamilton's post.

Dickinson has been with the Los Angeles Department of Airports for 28 years, joining the staff as assistant superintendent of operations at LAX in 1947. Both Hamilton and Dickinson were pilots in the Air Transport Command of the Army Air Corps during World War II.

An accredited member of the American Association of Airport Executives. Hamilton serves on the Mt. San Antonio College aviation industry advisory committee. He is a member of the board of directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Ontario Rotary Dickinson is first vice president of the California Association of Airport Executives and a member of the board of directors for the Industrial Association of the San Fernando Valley. He is also president of the West Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce and serves as charter president of the Van Nuys Airport Kiwanis Club.

Ford will huddle with Brown, state legislature on Friday

Ford left Washington today for the West Coast where he planned two days of official and political appearances and was scheduled to make five speeches.

The President met in the morning with congressional leaders for discussion of energy problems, then flew by helicopter to nearby Andrews Air Force Base where he. departed in Air Force One.

Also aboard the President's plane were Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska; Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., and Rep. Joel Pritchard. R-Wash.

Ford will be testing the political waters in the home territories of two potential rivals for the presidency in 1976, Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and former Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of An 18-hour schedule today includes stops in Seattle, Wash., and Portland. Ore., with an overnight stay in Sacramento.

In Sacramento, the President will address a joint session of the California legislature, eat breakfast Friday with community and business Gov. Edmund G. Brown on California energy problems.

Because of several political meetings that Ford will attend, the Republican National Committee is paying for the entire trip.

Ford will address two GOP fundraising luncheons in Seattle, one at $25 a plate, the second at $500 a plate. Then he'll speak before another in a series of White House regional conferences on domestic and economic problems.

At the regional conference he will answer questions from the audience. a format which presidential aides say Ford likes very much after testing it recently in Peoria, Ill., and

Saved her boy

Paramedics win a mother's heart

A San Dimas mother today credited the San Dimas Community Hospital paramedics and the Los Angeles County paramedics from Glendora with saving the life of her 3-year-old son. The boy, Paul Smith, fell Sunday while playing at the edge of his grandparents' pool at 745 N. Walnut Ave., hitting his head on the deck and toppling into the water. His sister. Kimberly, 5, apparently missed Paul first and called his name. The parents looked up and saw the boy floating face down in the water.

They immediately pulled him out and began resuscitation efforts. "I tried mouth-to-mouth," said his mother. Margaret, "but it wasn't working. He was turning blue. I moved him down the deck and told my husband to just blow into his mouth.

Smith took over. The child coughed, then vomited, Mrs.

Smith said.

The boy's grandfather, Bill Callander, called the emergency units. "They responded in 3 minutes," said Mrs. Smith. "They deserve a lot of credit. They administered oxygen. They estimated Paul had been in the water about 45 seconds.

The child was admitted to San Dimas Community

Hospital and released Tuesday night.

Today he's "roaring around, back to normal," Mrs. Smith said. But he still has a nasty bruise and scratches on the left side of his face where he hit the concrete when

Judge bars union teams from farms

FRESNO (AP) - Union organizers seeking support in California's upcoming farm labor representation elections have been barred temporarily from ranches where growers refuse access

A federal judge's temporary restraining order would, unless challenged successfully, deny guaranteed access during a period of intense election activity under California's new secret ballot farm union act. The law, the nation's first, took effect last Thursday and filing of petitions to force elections began this week.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge M.D. Crocker of Fresno scheduled a hearing Sept. 12 to decide whether to issue an injunction against the access rule or let his temporary order lapse.

The state Agricultural Labor Relations Board had granted limited access to ranches to let United Farm Workers and Teamsters organizers talk with workers. But Crocker enjoined the state Wednesday from applying, implementing or enforcing its access rule.

He acted on a lawsuit filed by a grower's organization. the South Central Farmers Committee, which argued that allowing anyone on a person's land without his permission violates constitutional property

We are doing everything possible to cooperate with the ALRB but have said on several occasions we felt the board was biased toward the unions," said Don Curlee, a spokesman for the growers group. We felt this was an indication of that bias and we just had to block that sort of thing."

Several UFW organizers have been arrested or cited in recent weeks, including one in Fresno County Wednesday, for trespassing in fields.

Glomar job: Russ sensors off coast

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Russian sens ing devices, supposedly planted in the sea bed 50 miles off the Southern California coast, were said to be the next targets of the Glomar Explorer, the electronics-crammed mystery

The San Diego Evening Tribune reported Wednesday the Russian sensors were imbedded around San Clemente Island, part of the Navy's Pacific Missile Range where two new nuclear missiles are scheduled to be tested.

The Glomar Explorer is to be joined in its new mission by the HMB1, a five-story tall, submersible barge. The two vessels combined last summer in a supersecret CIA mission and successfully raised part of a Soviet submarine from the Pacific floor northwest of

The Evening Tribune said the Glomar Explorer's crew spent nine days training in secret off Catalina Island for their new mission. Their training included lowering the barge to the wreck of a 16th-Century Spanish ship, lying in 180 feet of

The newspaper said the Russian sensors which the Glomar Explorer will attempt to destroy or neutralize may have been planted off San Clemente Island as long ago as 1962.

The sensors were planted in the sea beds by Soviet submarines and intelligence ships and are in the area that the Navy will be using in upcoming tests of its newest strategic missile, the Trident 1," the paper said.

Navy officials in San Diego refused to confirm or deny the report, but a Defense Department spokesman in Washington, D.C., said underwater launch testing of the Trident 1 will begin at San Clemente Island within four months.

The newspaper said the Glomar Explorer also was assigned to plant seabed monitoring devices designed to track the missiles and preparing recovery systems for test vehicles to prevent picup by Soviet salvage units.

In addition, the ship will attempt to trace the location of an undisclosed object which may have been placed intentionally or dropped accidentally in the vicinity of San Clemente

The newspaper did not say how the Soviet sensors were discovered or how many of them had been planted off San Clemente Island. Nor was there any mention of whether any objects were retrieved from the sea floor during Glomar Explorer's training mission off Catalina.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - School integration may have slowed the decade-long flight of whites from Northern cities to the suburbs rather than speeded the exodus, a Boston University researcher says.

Prof. Christine Rossell's report, based on percentages of white pupils in urban schools for several years before and after school desegregation, suggests that whites leave the cities in far fewer numbers after desegregation has been completed than before it began.

Her findings were presented Wednesday at the American Political Science Association meeting in San Francisco. She conducted her research while at the University of Maryland.

Tax shelter, haven for non-payer, under congressional probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Thanks to various tax shelters, no tax was paid by a dentist earning $156,000, a lawyer getting $151,000 or a physician making $105,000

A real estate partnership started one late December day lost $215,000. For each $1 invested in this one, the partners were able to deduct 95 cents in the first taxable year - which was just three days long.

Likewise, in three business days of operation, a cattlefeeding tax shelter lost $1.927 million. Investors got a deduction of $1.93 for each $1 invested.

Eight film partnerships involved a total investment of $1.47 million. The aggregate net loss of these eight was $4.36 million and only one had any income, which amounted to $16,000. The loss passed through to individual partners averaged $2.97 for each $1 of investment.

Making public such details in a congressional tax staff analysis, Congress on Wednesday began a new examination of tax shelters. The House Ways and Means Committee received the 50-page analysis, which did not identify the taxpayers referred to.

This analysis, dealing with examples involving 24 partnership and three small business corporation tax returns selected by the Internal Revenue Service, concerns tax sheltering in the areas of real estate, cattle breeding and feeding, movies, and oil and gas drilling

A tax shelter is a legal investment device used by persons who put some money into a project with a goal of building up some accounting losses which they can use to wipe out their regular income for tax purposes. It is usually used by persons with substantial income outside the area involved in the shelter.

The existence of tax shelters "has become a focal point for disenchantment with the fairness of the federal tax system," congressional tax staff experts said in a separate report.

One individual involved in a cattle feed tax shelter had $98,000 in income. All this income was sheltered by $132,000 in losses from cattle tax shelters, $5,000 in losses from horse racing and breeding operations, and $26,000 due to losses from small business corporations involved in cattle operations. Thus, he paid no tax.

Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said he wants the panel to spend 20 working days over the next seven weeks making its initial decisons on an assortment of tax proposals so a bill can be ready for House action later this

These items range from possible continuation of multibillion-dollar general tax cuts to various taxsimplication ideas and highly controversial issues involving business capital formation. Other Democrats on the committee said it seems unlikely the panel could finish all these items within 20 working days.

No link to Russ grain sales, price hikes-Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz insisted today that recent food price increases were unrelated to the latest grain sales to the Soviet Union.

In prepared testimony before the Senate Agricultural Committee, Butz described the increases as only coincidental with grain sales to the U.S.S.R. "It wasn't cause and effect," Butz

said AFL-CIO President George Meany and six maritime unions are boycotting shipments of 10.3 million metric tons of grain to Russia, claiming the sales will cause the price of bread, beef and other foods to skyrocket in this country. We have plenty of grain this year and in the future," Butz said. "American farmers need the Soviet market if they are to continue responding to an official U.S. policy of full production.

Butz acknowledged that late this year and in early 1976 the grain sales will probably cause approximately a 1.5 per cent increase in food prices and said over-all for 1975 food prices will probably be up an average 8 or 9 per cent. 2 to 3 per cent higher than previous estimates.

'Our conclusion suggests that the over-all effect of the U.S.S.R. purchases made thus far will not riously affect retail food prices or materially alter the adjustments underway in the livestock industry,' Butz said.

Butz agreed that if the U.S. grain harvest should be smaller than expected and if demand for U.S. grain from abroad is expanded, "additional pressures would be put on retail prices in coming months.

The committee also heard from Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board who repeated his own estimate that the ultimate effect of the grain sales to the Soviets might be an increase of up to 2.5 per cent next year.

But Burns said he opposed any attempts to place export controls on U.S. farm production.

Nixon to hand over papers on U.S. spying policies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former President Richard M. Nixon has agreed to turn over to the Senate intelligence committee some of his papers which outline former U.S. policy toward Chile as well as plans for domestic intelligence gathering, White House counsel Philip Buchen said today.

The committee had issued subpoenas for the documents.

The committee will be furnished those documents which relate to the subpoenas," Buchen said, adding that the documents deal with Nixon administration policy toward Chile and plans for domestic intelligence

The agreement on the Nixon documents was worked out Wednesday among lawyers for Nixon, the White House and the Senate committee.

Under the terms of the agreement, which still requires formal approval by a federal court, Nixon's attorneys will search the files to determine what documents and tapes relate to the Senate subpoenas.

Committee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, who last week insisted that Senate investigators be allowed to determine the relevancy of documents for themselves, called the agreement "a good faith effort to provide the committee the papers it

Buchen spoke to reporters after a meeting with members of the Senate committee

Both Buchen and lawyers for Nixon stressed that the decision to voluntarily comply with the Senate subpoenas did not mean the former president would not resist any other congressional demands for his files.

Committee vice chairman John Tower, R-Tex., said the agreement removed the possibility of a lengthy court battle which could have further delayed the committee's investigation of the CIA and other U.S. intelligence agencies

The Nixon files, consisting of some 42 million items, are the subject of another complex legal proceeding to determine whether they are owned by Nixon or the government. The subpoenas were issued by the Senate committee last month as part of its investigation of Nixon administration efforts in the fall of 1970 to prevent Chilean Marxist Salvador Allende from noming to power.

Materials relating to the development of a domestic intelligence program by former White House aide Tom Charles Huston also were sought by the committee.

Busing underway smoothly

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - School buses rolled through the early morning darkness today, with little disruption, to open a desegregation program that will affect 22,600 youngsters in Louisville and Jefferson County.

Supt. E.C. Grayson reported that "everything was proceeding smoothly," adding that there were no security problems during the Grayson said, however, "there were momentary incidents of people attempting to block school buses with their autos but this was broken up by police.

The superintendent said some autos were seen following buses to their destinations but "nothing happened.

Traffic jams were reported around some schools but Mayor Harvey Sloane attributed this to the "confusion that always exists on the opening day of school.

I have a good feeling about this and I think it's going smoothly in the city," the mayor told newsmen at a communication center set up to monitor the program's progress throughout the day.

Sloane said "there might be some pockets of resistance out in the coun-

Police cruisers were scattered along the city's expressways and each bus carried an adult volunteer to maintain order.

Buses began picking up youngsters at 6:15 a.m., EDT, from neighborhood stops to transport them to "home" schools. Those scheduled to be bused for desegregation then were transported to their new schools.

Some stores closed today to protest the busing program, and the Ku Klux Klan said it would stage a march later in the day in downtown Louisville.

A spokesman for the Ford Motor Co. truck plant reported that it was shut down after 38 per cent of the 1.500 man work force failed to ap-

Health spa business booms; so do complair

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer Up. down. Up, down. Breathe deeply. Stretch

those muscles! Millions of Americans are turning to exercise to help keep in shape and the health spa business is booming.

The industry has grown tremendously since the 1950s and so has the number of consumer complaints, prompting the Federal Trade Commission to propose a series of regulations for health spas.

The proposed rules subject to public comment and hearings - make it easier for customers to cancel contracts with health spas and prohibit long-term arrangements.

Here are some questions and answers about spas and proposed rules:

What is a health spa? A. According to the FTC definition, a health spa is 'an establishment which provides as one of its primary purposes services or facilities which are purported to assist patrons to improve their physical condition or appearance through change in weight, weight control, treatment, dieting or exercise. The term includes an establishment designated as 'reducing salon,' 'health spa,' 'spa.' 'exercise gym,' 'health studio,' 'health club' or by other terms of similar import.

The recently formed Association of Physical Fitness Centers defines a health spa as a place offering "a contract for instruction, training or assistance in physical culture, exercising, reducing, physical development or any other such activity or for the use of the facilities of a health spa, gymnasium or other facility used for any of the above

Captive lion back in wilds

SACRAMENTO (AP) -Game specialists have accomplished what they believe is the first successful restoration to the wilds of a captive mountain lion.

The California Department of Fish and Game reported Tuesday that the animal was captured as a cub last Feb. 12 when wandering in an apparent starved condition on the Hollister Ranch in Santa Barbara County. After being taught to fend for itself by the Alexander Lindsay Jr. Museum in Walnut Creek, hundreds of miles to the north, it was returned to the same area July 28.

This time it wore a radiotelemetry collar

Specialists tracking the lion learned that it restricted itself for the first two weeks to a 300acre area where it was released. It then extended its range to a 15-square-mile area. And 31 days after the release, it returned to the point of its release.

Record county tax rate

LOS ANGELES (AP) -A record property tax rate has been approved in Los Angeles County

The Board of Supervisors voted Tuesday to approve combined budgets of $3.07 billion for the county general fund, special funds and hundreds of special districts.

The total property tax rate to fund the budgets is $4.8 cents higher than last year's total-a previous high - of $14.0371.

The new figure was presented to the board by Auditor-Controller Mark H. Bloodgood after he made final computations.

The board also adopted a record $4.5185-per-$100 assessed valuation county general fund tax rate.

FAMILY

Under the new rates, an average $24.000 home assessed at $6,000 in Los Angeles will be taxed $613.82 this November, up $10.76 from last year.

posh reducing salons that draw the wealthy to lose weight?

A. The FTC isn't sure. It is seeking public comment on whether its definition is too broad. The industry trade association said it welcomes all members providing "progressive resistance exercise." That excludes reducing salons that promise weight loss without effort through machines that do all the

Q. How many health spas are there?

A. No one knows. An

FTC spokesman said it's "almost impossible" to count them because the Commerce Department lumps spas in with other personal service industries. Jimmy Johnson, acting executive director of the trade association, said his group's membership includes 15 major companies with 320 spas serving a million and one half people.

Q. What about all those glowing advertisements? A. The FTC said that it has reason to believe many of the spas engage in deceptive and misleading techniques, using so-called "bait-and-switch" tactics and misrepresenting the types of programs available and the length of enrollment required.

The industry association has developed a code of ethics that bans, among other things: promoting short-term or limited membership plans without having such plans available for all interested customers; claiming that substantial body proportion changes or specific physical results are possi-advertising and sales the need for continued and for any reason, and get a regular adherence to an exercise program and a proper nutritional diet: advertising a discount or special price unless it relates to a program regularly available and sold at > a higher price. Q. Exactly what do the FTC proposals say?

A. The key provisions deal with cancellation and length of contracts. The rules would allow a buyer to cancel a contract within a three-day cooling-off period and get a full refund. A customer also could cancel, at any time, partial refund, depending on how long the contract had to run. The rules prohibit contracts for more than a two-year period.

Johnson said the industry would have no objections to the three-day cancellation period. The association's code of ethics already allow a two-day cooling-off period and Johnson said the provision would be extended another 24 hours.

He said he was opposed, however, to the period allowing cancellation at any time. The spa's biggest expense in connection with a new customer is the initial effort, he said, and it is not fair to simply allow people a refund on a prorated, time basis.

"They've destroyed the right of contract," he said.

Johnson said the spas which are members of his association do not issue contracts based on a specific number of lessons or visits, making it difficult to determine what portion of a contract has been used. "We're more analagous to a country club or the YMCA." he said.

may use them as often or as seldom as they want.

Q. What if I want to comment on the rules?

A. Interested parties are invited to submit comments to the Special Assistant Director for Rulemaking, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580. The deadline is Oct. 20. # U.S. schools are not ready for refugee children

By JOE FRAZIER

Thousands of Indochinese refugee children will enter U.S. schools this fall unand bewildered by American culture. Many officials say their schools are ill-prepared to teach them.

With the opening of schools only a few days off in most states, many administrators say they still don't know how many refugee children they will have, what their level of English ability will be, if any, or how they will educate them. The major problems include cultural differences, money and a lack of teachers who speak Vietnamese or Cambodian along with English.

Some larger districts. such as Chicago and Washington, D.C., say they are experienced in bilingual education problems and predict no problems, but an Associated Press nationwide survey indicates they are in the minority.

Recent court rulings say a school district is responsible for the education of all children in the district.

'The main thing we need is financial support and a determination of the number of children we will have to educate. We suspect many of the children are not literate in Vietnamese, much less English," Cal Adamson, Georgia's assistant superintendent of education said. He estimates about 300 refuge children will be in Georgia schools this fall.

School officials in Columbus, Ohio, where about 100 refugee pupils will enroll, say they are unaware of any Vietnamese refugee teachers in the Districts with former teachers from Vietnam say many left their credentials behind them, or that there have been problems reconciling the credentials with American standards. Many districts plan to hire the Vietnamese teachers as aides until the problems can be worked out.

Norval Gross, director of pupil personnel in Columbus, said when he was a principal, his school took in several students from Hong Kong who spoke no English. "We made a class project out of it," he recalled. "The other students took them under their wing.

Houston, which has the lion's share of Texas' estimated 2.000 refugee pupils, has employed a former Vietnamese minister of education to coordinate programs.

In Fort Smith, Ark., near Ft. Chaffee, America's largest refugee center, and in Little Rock, school administrators are looking to

Soviet tops oil output

WASHINGTON (AP) The Soviet Union became the world's leading oilproducer in 1974, surpassing the United States for the first time, the U.S. Bureau of Mines noted Wednesday in a summary of petroleum trends.

The bureau said Soviet production of crude oil and field condensate, a related product, increased nine per cent to 3.4 billion barrels last year.

Meanwhile, U.S. production decreased five per cent to 3.2 billion barrels.

Petroleum demand was dampened by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo and by steep increases in world oil prices.

Worldwide oil production in 1974 was nearly the same as in 1973 at 20.5 billion barrels, an increase of only 100 million barrels over the previous year.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), whose members include the Arab oil-producing nations which interrupted their deliveries to bring pressure on Israel, saw their annual production slip from 11.3 billion barrels in 1973 to 11.2 billion in 1974. Europe and Japan, reacting to the embargo and higher prices, substantially reduced their oil im-

Fort Smith officials say they are unsure how many able to speak much English they will have. "Our plans are to place these students in a regular classroom and work on a tutorial basis." said Supt. C. B. Garrison. We have a rather large group of volunteers in the school district, anyway."

There and in numerous other districts, some summer language training was provided.

In Fairfax County, Va., one of the nation's larger districts, about 400 of the projected 1,000 refugee

He said the district will work with a junior college to teach the parents, as well, in recognition of the tight ties within Vietnamese families.

In Oregon, the legislature funded only $100,000 of a $500,000 request for bilingual education, and most of that is earmarked for use among Spanish - speaking students.

Jerry Fuller of the Oregon Department of Education, said: "We have no money to meet the needs of the Vietnamese kids we're going to have to meet." Officials in Portland and Salem districts say they still aren't certain how many refugee pupils they will have. Many districts are hoping for speedy passage of the federal Indochina Refugee Childrens Assistance Act, which would provide an average of $1,560 per refugee pupil to districts the first year and half of that the second year to take care of the added financial burdens. The estimated cost for the twoyear proposal is $125 million.

An aide to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., one of the cosponsors, says hearings are probable in September, and that backers hope for passage by early October. "After that, it might be too late to do much good." he said.

Currently districts can collect up to $300 in federal funds per refugee child if refugees in the district number at least 100 or make up 1 per cent of the enrollment.

Small districts with only

Some administrators expressed concern about cultural shock.

But Rina Thompson, a management intern with the Office of Education in the Chicago area. said: "The children tend to be very flexible and seem to be adjusting well. I think actually the school administrators will have more problems than the children in terms of setting up programs to meet the needs of educating these youngsters.

15-year-old Liza Doolittle is 16-year-old's fair lady

high school version of "My Fair Lady" enacted in Britain, a 16-yearold Liza Doolittle has eloped with a 15-year-old bit player. The worried parents of both teen-agers are searching the country for them.

Teressa Giggins was the star of the school play in Luton, north of London, and David Duncan had only a small walkon part as a bystander in a crowd scene. But he got the girl in the real life drama.

Parents said the couple fell in love behind the scenes and that David had secretly bought Teressa an engagement ring for $55.

Teressa wrote her parents a note saying, "We love each other, and we are going away. Please don't try to find us. I love you both. Police in London and in Edinburgh, Scotland, were alerted to search for the runaways.

David's father, toolmaker Herbert Duncan, 57, told newsmen in Luton Tuesday night he was preparing to go to Scotland to join the search.

"I don't know if the romance in the play went to their heads," he said, "but they have really fallen for each other. We are desperately worried about them. They are still children."

Teressa's father, Eric Giggins, 49, a truck driver, said, "They had obviously been planning carefully for months and saving money. They told an incredible number of lies to keep

"They started going out with each other soon after the play," Giggins added. "They had a secret engagement ring we never knew about.'

Reagan denies income a factor

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Ronald Reagan stands to lose a handsome income if he becomes a formal candidate for President.

The former California governor and his aides refuse to disclose the size of Reagan's personal income from his radio shows, speaking tours and newspaper columns.

They also say that income is not a factor in Reagan's hesitancy to enter the Republican presidential race.

But published reports which Reagan has refused to either confirm or deny - place his current income at $400,000 to 750,000 this

"We just consider the governor's income to be a personal matter, and we won't have any comment on it," said Reagan spokesman Mike Deaver But if each station paid an average of just $3 per show, that would bring in a quarter million dollars a vear.

If Reagan becomes a declared candidate, Federal Communications Commission "equal time" rules would have the effect of knocking his show off the Reagan, a radio sportscaster before he began his motion picture career, said in a recent interview that he is not concerned about giving up the show if he enters the race against President Ford.

But, he added, "it's something you'd hate to give up for no reason.

Lyn Nofziger, a key strategist in the "Citizens for Reagan" presidential committee, also scoffed at suggestions that Reagan is delaying a presidential announcement to hold on to the radio show.

"It depends on whether you want to be President or a radio announcer," Nofziger said.

Reagan's weekly column is sold to 260 newspapers by Copley News Service.

And Reagan receives up to $5,000 each for the dozen or so paid speeches which he gives monthly, according to a sampling of speech sponsors.

State averts loss of welfare funds

SACRAMENTO (AP) -California's welfare advertising dispute with the federal government has been settled, averting a possible loss to the state of $245 million, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. announced Wednesday. The Democratic governor said his administration had reached a compromise with F. David Mathews, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW threatened to cut off $245 million in aid because California refused to revise and repeat newspaper advertisements about welfare social services.

Brown's secretary of Health and Welfare, Mario Obledo, claimed the advertising was unnecessary and would waste the $65,000 it would cost. Federal officials said earlier advertisements did not contain all required infor-

Brown said he and Mathews had agreed that the state need only publish the extra information in a press release, without new advertising in newspapers.

The accord means the state will drop its suit against the federal government seeking to block the potential loss of $245 million.

The agreement also included five statements of mutual goals in the federal-state program of social services for the poor.

Both Brown and Mathews said they hoped the agreement was the first step toward better federal-state cooperation

Most frequent symptoms for medical appointments

WASHINGTON (AP) Do you have a lower extremity pain, back pain, sore throat, upper extremity pain, cough, abdominal pain? Or perhaps you're bothered by a common cold or need a pregnancy examination?

If so, you have a lot of company. A government study says those are the most frequent symptoms prompting Americans to see a doctor.

In more than 61 per cent of the visits, patients were given a return appointment date and 21.4 per cent were told to see the doctor again if the problem persisted. But the study found that very few were seriously ill. The study also reported that the average American visits the doctor's office three times a year but sees the doctor only 12 minutes each time.

If the doctor is in group practice, the patient is twice as likely to be Xrayed but he is 15 per cent more likely to have a drug prescribed if the doctor practices alone, the study said. The study was conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics, which is part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The center said it spent about $750,000 to sample 1,450 doctors and their treatment of about

3,000 patients from May

1973 through April 1974.

The study is continuing. The researchers said that by projecting the results nationwide they estimated almost 645 million visits were made to doctors' offfices during the 12month period.

More than 40 per cent were to general or family doctors. 26 per cent to medical specialists, 28.5 per cent to surgical specialists and almost 5 per cent to other specialists, the study said.

X-rays were reported taken of 5.1 percent of the patients visiting physicians practicing alone and 10.1 per cent of those seeing a doctor in group partnership practice. The study found drugs were prescribed for 52.3 per cent of those seeing physicians practicing alone and 45.1 of those going to a doctor in group practice.

S.B. County does it again: no tax boost

For the fourth consecutive year, San Bernardino County has avoided a property tax increase and held the line at $3.0034 per $100 of assessed valuation for 1975-76.

This decision Tuesday followed a financial struggle by the Board of Supervisors which resulted in the reduction of some $30 million in proposed spending.

Adoption by supervisors of the original budget requests submitted by county departments would have required a $1.25 tax increase. And even as presented for final presentation, requests would have necessitated a 28 cent increase beyond the

The supervisors, however, reaffirmed their position that the public cannot afford additional taxation despite spiraling county operational costs, resulting in large part from inflation during the past year.

Having completed the budgetary process necessary to protect the existing tax rate, supervisors noted it may be even more difficult to live within the austere expenditure package adopted.

The tax rate will fund approximately 30 per cent of the county budget with about 50 per cent to be received through state and federal

Jews will celebrate coming of new year

More than 1.000 Jewish residents of the valley will join their counterparts throughout the world Friday night to observe the Jewish New Year of 5736 in temples and syn-

The observance begins at sundown. and lasts through sundown Saturday in Reform Jewish temples and till sundown Sunday in Conservative and Orthodox synagogues. The Rosh Hashana services usher in the High Holy Day season which culminates with the observance of Yorn Kippur - the Day of Atonement - from sundown Sept. 14 to sundown Sept. 15.

Appropriate services are planned by Jewish houses of worship both in Pomona and Ontario.

At Temple Beth Israel in Pomona, services start at 8 p.m. Friday, with children's services scheduled at 9 a.m. Saturday, and concluding worship set for 11 a.m.

Rabbi Irving Mandel's sermons during the holidays will center around "Dreams We Have Always Dreamed." The temple choir, led by Cantor Herbert Isaacson, will furaish the High Holy Day music.

At the end of the Rosh Hashana services, the temple board will hold a reception for members and guests.

Kol Nidre services start on Sunday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m. They will be followed the next day by Yom Kippur morning worship at 10, by children services at 1 p.m. and by memorial services at 2:30.

The concluding services will be followed by a break-the-fast reception sponsored by the temple's

Sisterhood. At Temple Sholom in Ontario, Rosh Hashana services will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday. Yom Kippur services are scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 14, and at 9 a.m. Sept. 15. Memorial services will be held at 11:30 a.m. Sept. 15. Temple Sholom's Sisterhood will host a break-the-fast reception at the conclusion of Yom Kippur.

The High Holy Day season is introduced with a "Day of Judgment," at which, according to Jewish tradition, God sits as a Judge unfolding the record of every person's life during the past year, and considers the destiny of all for the year ahead.

Yom Kippur is the day when observing Jews atone for their sins through prayer and fasting and ask forgiveness. The services end with the traditional blowing of the ram's cables with dynamite. A simple job it might seem for a foremest explosive expert like Brower.

But the cables were at the Nevada Test Site, attached to an underground atomic device that failed to explode when the button was pushed hours earlier.

Fenix & Scisson Co. called Brower for the Atomic Energy Commission to "shoot a charge" to cut the cables and deactivate the device. But if anything went wrong, Brower, less than 250 feet away in the barren desert, would be right in the middle

It wasn't the first dangerous assignment undertaken by Brower, who has a reputation of doing things others turn down.

It was Brower whom New York police invited to survey the damage after a group of Weathermen blew themselves up in a New York townhouse in 1970. Movie studios repeatedly request his services when they want an explosion to film.

During the Korean War, he led a group of young men dubbed "Ali Brower and his 30 Thieves" on behind-the-lines operations. But Brower admits this was one job he had second thoughts about.

"On another job I insisted they insure myself and my partner for $1 million each." he said. "I figured if I was going to go I wanted to leave something to my heirs.

But the assignment eight years ago came off just as planned, and Brower heaved a sigh of relief and walked away.

Working with explosives has not been without its toll on Brower. Nine years ago he lost four fingers on his left hand when a "junk-buster" charge for an oil well misfired. His doctors advised him to take it easy, perhaps even quit the business.

But believe me, it did not slow me up." Brower said as he sat in his office, color pictures of explosions decorating his walls.

Until that accident, Brower had seemed to live a charmed life.

He first worked seriously with explosives in the Army during World War II, when he became a munitions and explosives disposal expert.

He was recalled for the Korean War and as a captain took custody of 30 young convicts who had been paroled to the Army, for service in Korea. Some of the men were familiar with explosives from their days as safecrackers, he recalled.

'We were born scavengers, Brower said. The unit was sent to Korea with practically nothing except what they they would latch on to whatever equipment they could find.

Before long, we were the best armed and best 'equipped unit in Korea," Brower said.

Brower and his 30 thieves were often called in to mine bridges, very often in the same places.

The Corps of Engineers would build a bridge, and we'd blow it up as we pulled back," he recalled. "The next month they'd build it again, and we'd blow it up again. After this went on for about three months, we put up a sign: 'Would you please make up your mind?'

When the United Nations forces were pulling back from the north, Brower and his men were left to bring up the rear.

'It was us against about a million and a half Chinese," he said. "But we made it.'

After two decades, Brower still keeps in touch with his "thieves," all of whom he says now are leading productive, useful lives. After the war, Brower was assigned to train soldiers for guerrilla warfare - and was criticized for making things too realistic by boobytrapping roadblocks with hand grenades and tear gas.

Much of Brower's work has been done underwater, demolishing abandoned bridges as he did in Korea, removing trees from the bottom of Lake Havasu in Arizona and blasting a section of the BART tunnel in San Francisco Bay.

"We were asked to do things no one else could, and we developed a whole line of explosives," Brower

He has combined his practical experience with technical understanding of explosives to teach, lecture and even write books on the sub-

"I've never made the same mistake once," he admits.

Brower and his wife, Peggy, who works as his office receptionistsecretary, have been married 33 years. They have two sons, Paul of Claremont and John, who is an Air Force navigator stationed at Norton Air Force Base, a daughter, Kathy, who lives in Whittier, and one grandson, Jon.

A young Pomonan was in fair condition today at County-USC Medical Center where he was being treated for a gunshot wound suffered Monday night.

The victim, Terry Allen Klink, 20, 1480 Balboa St., was wounded in the side when a .22-caliber pistol discharged inside a car he was in. Sheriff's deputies said the incident was at Foothill Boulevard west of Benson Avenue in Upland.

Klink was riding in the front passenger seat of a car driven by Paul J. Brown, 23, 750 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont. When the pistol went off it was being handled in the back seat by 15-year-old Paul Arnold McClure, of the Claremont address, deputies reported. The bullet went through the back of the car seat and hit Klink in the left side.

The victim was treated first at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred later to the county

Deputies quoted McClure as saying he bought the pistol recently from an unidentified individual for $30.

Nation's exports depend on DISC

Recently the U.S. Commerce Department recommended that U.S. manufacturers look to foreign markets to place their products as a means of stimulating the economy at home through greater production and hence more jobs.

American industry may find this more difficult in the future if Congress eliminates a tax deferral on exports which it is considering doing

Under the Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC) provision enacted in 1971, U.S. companies have been able to defer payment of federal income tax on about 25 per cent of the profits derived from export sales.

The tax deferment can be temporary, or it can be deferred indefinitely if a company follows certain requirements calling for reinvestment of the deferred tax in ways that increase U.S. manufacture of products for export.

Some 300 companies have organized a "special committee for U.S. exports" to preserve DISC. The heaviest anti-DISC pressures are coming in the House Ways and Means Committee, which wants to scrap DISC as part of the committee's tax reform.

While the Office of Management and Budget argues convincingly that the loss of export taxes is hardly compensated for by an increase in foreign exchange, it is likewise hard to argue against the fact that U.S. exports have doubled to $98 billion since DISC went into effect.

One of the loudest voices in support of DISC comes from Robert H. Malott, chairman of FMC Corp., whose Sweeper Division is one of Pomona's largest industries. Malott testified before Ways and Means that his company's exports tripled to nearly $300 million since DISC came into being

E. O. "Bill" Williams, manager of the Pomona division, reports a substantial increase in international sales over the past several years. These sales, he says, come under the provisions of DISC and provide employment for approximately 150 people in the Sweeper Division. More than 25 per cent of the production of the Pomona plant is shipped to countries outside the U.S., according to Williams.

Since FMC's experience in stimulating U.S. exports, creating additional jobs, and increasing federal revenues is fairly typical of American industry, the continuation of DISC appears to be imperative if U.S. manufacturers are to continue to be competitive in the world marketplace.

Postmarks' partial return

The U.S. Postal Service is going to give Americans back their geographical identities.

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar has announced that as soon as the required cancelling equipment is available and in place, local postmarks will be applied on outgoing first-class mail at processing centers throughout the country.

It was thanks to the Postal Service, of course, and in the name of efficiency, that the local postmark was sent into oblivion in the first place. Except for a few large cities, the service dropped most postmarks in 1970 and began cancelling stamps in regional mail processing centers. Envelopes were printed simply with "U.S. Postal Service," plus an abbreviation of the state and the first three digits of the zip code where the letter was processed.

Although the news release from Washington gives the impression that the use of local postmarks is a brand-new idea that originated with the Postal Service, the credit goes to the efforts of stamp collectors and postmark afficionados, notably a campaign launched last year by Ray Geiger, owner of the Farmers' Almanac.

We won't be going all the way back to the old system, however. There will only be about 350 mail processing centers with the equipment necessary for handling large quantities of mail. Residents of Pea Ridge, Ark., for example, will have their letters postmarked Fayetteville, AR 727.

But it has always been possible to have a letter postmarked with the name of a small town by dropping it into a special box in that town's post office, and this practice will continue.

The public forum Corrections in valley history

Dear Editor: This is not intended as a vindictive letter, but one which I think is justified. In your Centennial issue, Aug. 17, 1975 a story appeared under my byline. I was asked to write this story. Since I have studied California history as well as that of the Pomona Valley, some people might place credence on my statements. Students might use the story as a dependable source of historical fact. For this reason I would like the following corrections to be made.

Quoted from manuscript: "Luis Arenas built a house near the corner of Gibbs and McKinley streets ... Luis' wife, Josefa Palomares, sister of Ygnacio, tutored the children of the rancho families before the first public school sessions began." As printed: there is no record of the

Quoted from manuscript:

"There were other Alvarado houses on the rancho. Juan Nepomeceno Alvarado married another sister of Ygnacio Palomares, Barbara. They first built a house a short distance east of the Adobe de Palomares. Then he constructed a house near the mouth of San Antonio Canyon. # Congressional job pushers

WASHINGTON - Several prominent Members of Congress have brought pressure on the General Services Administration to violate the law and give preferential treatment to their friends for civil service jobs.

The confidential investigative files of the Civil Service Commission contain reports on 36 Senators and 32 Congressmen who allegedly pushed GSA to find jobs for their friends.

Federal law strictly prohibits preferential treatment in civil service hiring. There is enough flexibility in the law to permit Members of Congress to endorse job applicants. But the selections are supposed to be made wholly on merit, without political consideration.

Yet the confidential files show that more than 300 people got their jobs at GSA through political favoritism. In fact, GSA created a special unit to handle the illegal patronage referrals.

Although these violations are carefully documented, it took years for the Civil Service Commission to get around to bringing charges against eight GSA officials. But no action has been taken against the Members of Congress, whom the GSA political unit served.

The investigative files finger Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott as the most energetic patronage seeker with more than 60 jobs secured. An investigative report states that GSA maintained "a Senator Scott file" separate from other political referral files.

His recommendations apparently carried great weight. One friend of Scott was awarded a top job, according to the report, even though

"there were 14 people ahead of him on (the Civil Service) register.

Another time, Scott wrote a "Dear Bob" letter to then GSA Administrator Robert Kunzig urging that he "favorably consider" J. as a buildings Ronald Smith for a job manager in Pittsburgh.

Back came a "Dear Hugh" letter from Kunzig. "You may be assured," he wrote, "that we will do everything possible to expedite processing his appointment.

About the same time, Scott also pushed Harold Kitchen for a federal protection officer's job in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Neither Smith nor Kitchen, as it happened, could pass the qualifications. But GSA produced a typical bureaucratic solution; both men simply were offered better jobs.

It is all explained in a June 23, 1971, memo which speaks of Smith and Kitchen as "the two must referrals from Senator Scott's office.

Confides the memo: "We were not able to qualify Mr. Smith for this position. We therefore established another position." Thus, he was given a tailor-made job, in blatant violation of the law, at a recommended salary of $16,404.

In the case of Kitchen, the helpful folks at GSA "qualified him and are ready to offer him a GS-9 assistant buildings manager position ... (which) pays $10,4780 per annum as compared to the $6,938 that the federal protection job would have

Former Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., now running for the Senate in New Hampshire, was also active in seeking GSA jobs for his political pals. A special job was illegally 'created" for one of his friends, John O'Malley, and GSA assigned "top priority" to the job application of Frank Schiappa, the father of Wyman's administrative assistant.

Ill health finally prevented the elder Schiappa from obtaining gainful employment at GSA, but four other Wyman referrals received preferential treatment. Applicant after applicant, with the right political connections, got priority over those who had no pull. A job seeker recommended by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., for example, landed a cushy, $25,000-a-year post "over a stronger candidate," according to the files.

GSA also "went to great lengths" to arrange an $18,000-a-year job for Barney Sanders, who had the backing of House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., and former Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla.

Before Gerald Ford moved from Capitol Hill to the White House, he teamed up with ex-Rep. Les Arends, R-Ill., to seek GSA job for Joseph Lawless.

And at the insistence of Sen. James Pearson, R-Kans., the "Republican credentials" of a career employee were checked before his promotion was approved.

The Republicans' favorite wire puller at GSA, Jack LeMay, wrote in one confidential memo: "In each case where I have referred a candidate. I think he ought to have the job." But he added mysteriously: "I do think the less we put in writing on these matters, the better.'

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

There's a right way, a wrong way - and then there's the American way. This fact was never better illustrated than by the 80 per cent of all Americans who are fighting a weight problem. The reason they got themselves into that unenviable condition is in a large measure due to the way they spend their money on automobiles to keep from walking - and then spend more money on remote control garage door openers in order to keep from having to exert a bit of physical effort getting in and out of their cars. So what do they do to correct the problem? Why, with typical American ingenuity, they spend more of their hard earned money on some fast, easy, effortless reducing program . . . something, for instance, like losing weight by hypnosis or maybe just thinking slender.

Tom Tiede More pity for the criminal

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - When a thug tried to assault Beth Sofler on a New York City doorstep last year he set in motion not one, but many crimes against women. And though the criminal act itself was bad enough, the related offenses may have been worse.

Ms. Sofler, a college student, spent months trying to cope with the process of prosecuting the man: Answering rude questions, making repeated and often empty court appearances, facing the humiliating remarks of the suspect and his attorney. And in the end it was for no purpose; the defendant was released on a legal technicality

With variations as to outcome, such is the curse of most crime victims in America. Historically they have been the neglected factor in the criminal justice equation, and with ever new rights and considerations for the perpetrators of crime, victims may even be increasingly neglected.

They are outsiders in an insider's system, they are tangential pieces of evidence, they are number designations or the recorded notes of docket cases. Rarely are they treated for what they really are: Put-upon people.

In a word, says Jim Lacy of the Police Foundation, vietims are treated "scandalously." After several years of investigating their plight for the Washington-based law enforcement association, Lacy believes victims are victimized not only by crooks, but often, and after the fact, by cops, courts and conditions of procedure that generally dehumanize and diminish

Just the matter of finding a parking space near a courthouse, says Lacy, can contribute to the overall abuse of a victim. Defendants may be chauffeured by their lawyers to designated courthouse spaces, but someone who has just been raped may have to locate an unoccupied

Actually, the systemic abuse for victims often begins long before court appearance is required. Police interrogation of victims is commonly as intense as it is for perpetrators. Old people who are mugged after dark, for instance, may be grilled as to why they were out after dark, as if by inference they encouraged the crime.

Also, police normally confiscate any of the victim's property that can be used as court evidence, thus denying the owner use of the goods for weeks and even months. One Washington cop remembers a case where a woman's hearing aid was kept for over a year "and by the time we gave it back to her it was corroded, bro

Beyond this there is for victims the interminable waiting. Cases drag on. Court dates are set, canceled. reset and canceled again. And even when the victims go through it all, suffering lost wages for time off their jobs. wasting dreary hours sitting dumb in crowded legal chambers, even when they cooperate fully in the name of justice they may never comprehend the workings of Surveys of victims indicate that many are not so much as informed at all about the outcome of their cases. The result of this sad neglect, we are beginning to learn.

goes far beyond the question of fair play for victims. The abuses may actually, at least indirectly, be a major contributing factor to the growth of crime itself. Federal authorities believe at least two of every three victims in today's society will not even bother to report crimes committed and there are numbers of victims who refuse to press charges against suspects. "It's purely speculation." says the Police Foundation's Lacy, "but a good argument might be made that this is an atmosphere in which the criminal element can thrive.

And yet virtually nothing of a corrective nature is being proposed. The abuse and alienation of crime victims goes on almost without consideration. # Dr. Miller Why rabbits pull off hair

DEAR DR. MILLER: When Go-Go, our rabbit, started pulling all the hair off her stomach, we got worried. We should have known she was doing it because she's having some babies. But why, when she's in a very warm place and she has a nice, warm little nest anyway, does she need to bother pulling off that hair to make a nest? Don't the babies ever get overheated? One other thing. When do those babies open their eyes? -S.N.

DEAR S.N.: Answers to your questions, in reverse order: The eyes of her infants open by the 10th day. It takes better than a week for fur to cover their naked bodies, so they seldom become overheated by exposure to extreme temperatures. There's one other important advantage to the newborn derived from Go-Go's bellybaring, fur-pulling activities: Her comparatively furless underside saves the hungry but comparatively puny newborn a lot of trouble when first sidling up to that milk bar.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Blackie's eyes are going bad on him. When the light begins to get dim and when it's dark, he can't see anything. I thought cats were supposed to see in the dark. I know Vitamin A is good for night vision and I've started stuffing Vitamin A capsules down him. Do you think that will do the trick? - N.L.

DEAR N.L.: Probably not. Stuffing him with Vitamin A capsules can be dangerous, anyway, since ultra high doses of Vitamin A are toxic. Further, most cats have diets rich in Vitamin A (liver is loaded with it, for example) so it's unlikely that there was any A deficiency in the first place. There are more probable causes for Blackie's bad vision, but his veterinarian would be the likely one to pinpoint the problem. Some eye problems in cats which can lead to blindness are correctable if caught early enough.

plea to unwed mothers

Dear Ann Landers: Today in the Paducah Sun Democrat I read two heartbreaking articles - both about Kentucky mothers (in different cities) who abandoned their newborn babies and left them to die, one in a garbage can, the other in a plastic bag beside the roadway. I am sure such incidents occur every day all over the United States.

We all realize the problems of a single girl who tries to raise a child alone, but they certainly don't justify attempted murder.

My husband and I have been trying for several years to adopt a child. We've had several foster children in our home and loved them all dearly. If one of the Kentucky mothers had given us her child we would have been in seventh heaven.

Please, Ann, you reach millions. Tell women who don't want their babies to take them to a foundling home where they will be assured of a good life with a family who will love them. - Blue Grass Reader

Dear Friend: Thank you for giving me an opportunity to say something

Open plea To all pregnant women who don't want to (or cannot) keep your babies: Please, for the love of God, for your own peace of mind, for the sake of the child and for the thousands of couples who desperately want a child - contact a foundling home, an adoption agency or any welfare organization and let them know.

You will receive prenatal care, counseling, and be given complete assurance that your child will be placed in a home where he will receive infinite love and the start in life he deserves.

Many socially elite characters decive themselves into thinking they are not problem drinkers because they drink only wine, which is anywhere from 12 per cent to 18 per cent alcohol. (Most whiskeys are about 50 per cent.) But if they drink until they are stinko four or five evenings a week, they are just as addicted as the wino who is lying in the

My question: Should I attend the funeral? Would it be in poor taste? I need your counsel - Split In '42

Dear Friend: The man was the father of your children and a part of your life for 23 years. By all means attend the funeral and pay your last

Of course you would not sit with the family nor would it be necessary to make your presence known to them. But do go, dear. You'll be glad you did - and so will your children.

No other moment to match

A line in a sermon got me to thinking the other week. It posed the question, "Whom do you consider the loneliest person in the world?"

The candidates began to fill my mind like a free lunch at a bar.

Unquestionably they were: The man with 800 slides of his vacation. A kid at camp with measles.

An obscene phone caller who lost his dime The owner of a laundromat in a nudist colony. The vice president of anything.

The woman who bleaches her hair Chaperones on a field trip to Passion Park. Then it hit me. Maybe I don't speak for anyone else, but for me, the loneliest moment of my life is when I have a livingroom full of guests and I am in the kitchen checking on a new recipe: Chicken Wonderment.

There is no other moment to match

The guests have been smiling for two and a half hours and are so bored they're discussing their dental appointments . . . the snacks, so colorful and appetizing when the guests arrived, now have the appeal of a cage that hasn't been cleaned in awhile . . . and everyone is anxiously facing the kitchen like they are anticipating the second coming.

In the kitchen I approach the oven like a pitcher going to the mound in the bottom of the ninth with men on first and third and the count three balls, two strikes.

I am alone. I summon my best friend, Mayva, who says, "You'd better snap it up. They're starting to organize rescue parties.

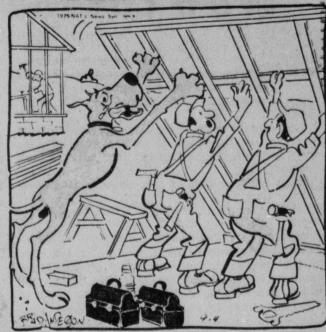

I am alone. My husband, without a hint of compassion, says, "For crying out loud . . . another 20 minutes and I can't guarantee the safety of our parakeet.

I am alone. I summon God and He puts me on hold.

Loneliness. It's that moment when you take the lid off the roaster and the sour cream that was supposed to thicken into a rich sauce didn't. And the chicken that was supposed to cook to plump tenderness is as hard as Billie Jean King's thigh. And the peas have drowned in their own butter and are lying in the pan like the creek dried up . . . and the rolls spill over their pans and are heading for the other wall, and the candles have reached the end of their wicks and are sputtering in their own wax.

The guests have stopped talking now to conserve energy. That's loneliness.

Vitamin claims are overblown

DEAR DR. LAMB - Could you please help me with a couple of vitamin questions? Is vitamin B-2 the complexion vitamin, and will B-6 really help one keep his weight down as I've been told? DEAR READER - Vitamin B-2 is riboflavin. Its most important role is in the complex enzyme system that enables you to tear down your food into carbon dioxide and water to release energy. Vitamins are not energy sources, they function to enable the body to release energy from food, specifically carbohydrates, fats and proteins. When you have enough for its important role, taking additional amounts will do nothing for you at all. It is like having enough matches to light a candle, an extra box won't help once the candle is lit. Deficiencies of riboflavin are quite rare, because it is so pelentiful in our diet. Milk and milk products are a very rich source. Milk exposed to sunlight loses part of its riboflavin. It is also present in meat of all kinds, cereals, including enriched breads, flour, macaroni and spaghetti. It is in broccoli, collards and spinach. It is hard to eat anything like a decent diet without getting enough

If a deficiency does occur it tends to affect the special areas of the skin, around the eyes and the mucous linings as around the lips.

Vitamin B-6, pyridoxine, also affects the skin and complexion. It is involved in enzyme systems used in metabolism. You get it in meats, vegetables and cereals, and it is almost impossible to have a B-6 deficiency if you eat anything like a balanced diet or these food groups.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that B-6 causes you to lose weight. The truth is that a deficiency of it might cause weight loss because of interfering with normal metabolism. Excess amounts of B-6 are not stored in the body. They are rapidly eliminated, so taking large doses of B-6 just wastes your money. I am aware of the current highly advertised fad of using B-6 in weight control regimes. It is pure hokum. All of these schemes work only from an associated diet that restricts calories one way or another, or because they cause you to eliminate body water, not calories, or finally because they make you sick.

For information on weight control write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter number 4-7 Weight Losing Diet.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column on split nails, and I could have written an identical letter a few years ago. I tried gelatin treatment and all sorts of things. Then a friend in a cosmetics shop advised me to omit nail polish altogether. Within a few weeks after I quit using all forms of polish my nails were in perfect condition, and I have not had a split nail since.

DEAR READER - Thank you for sharing your experience with others. We find that lots of problems are caused by reactions to a vast array of chemicals. And, we are all different in our reactions. It certainly will not cause any harm to stop using nail polish. So, those with split nail problems might as well try it. I'd be interested in the results from readers who try this.

What do you lead from a threecard suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless headed by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

West opens the deuce of spades against South's three notrump. East rises with the ace and leads the suit

Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend, West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against a modernist, but he would be guessing well - not playing a cinch.

An Alaskan reader wants to know what bridge writers mean when they say that a contract is cold.

The expression means the same at the North Pole and the equator. It is a colloquialism of bridge and means that declarer is sure to make it. Not that all cold contracts come in. Sometimes they are only sure fire if declarer knows how to play them.

'We'll call her Miss America'-how it began 55 years ago

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Nobody, but nobody, knows the Miss America Pageant like Harry L. Godshall.

Godshall, a peppery, bow-tied 85-year-old insurance man, is the sole suvivor of a 10-man committee created by the local Chamber of Commerce in the fall of 1920 to put on a beauty contest at the close of the next summer

In the early years, the contestants represented only cities and were chosen by newspapers in their areas.

It was an excellent circulation gimmick for the newspapers," explained Phillips. They conducted the contests just by having the girls send in their pictures. The newspaper arranged with advertisers - women's wear and the like - to provide the girls a wardrobe, and Atlantic City paid for her and a chaperone to travel here and put them up for the week, Godshall related. 'In 1923 it reached the point where the Newspaper Publishers Association sent out a bulletin that said the pageant was probably the most flagrant use of free publicity and urged its members to stop sponsoring contests." Godshall added. "But that didn't make any difference. We didn't lose any sponsors and in '25 we had 52 contestants from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Political squabbling and the reported withdrawal of support by hotelmen halted the contests from 1928-32 and

In the early years, Phillips reminisced, talent scouts haunted the pageant.

Some were legitimate, some were fly-by-night, trying to sign the contestants up for cheap night clubs and exploit them," he said.

But the pageant has remained nearly scandal-free. In 1931 Charlotte Nash, who finished fourth at the 1923 pageant as Miss St. Louis, was accused of murdering her wealthy husband in a Paris hotel, but a French court

In 1937 Bette Cooper, Miss Bertrand Island, N.J., won the title, but disappeared in the middle of the night with her young chauffeur. Godshall says, he just drove her home. She never returned.

She initiated the practice of giving scholarships in 1945, when New York City's Bess Myerson carried home a $5,000 grant with the Miss America crown.

Today women hostesses do the driving and watch over the 50 state queens during pageant week, monitoring interviews and keeping an eye on photographers' angles. The contestants, chosen by franchised state pageants, have chaperones with them at all times and cannot drink or smoke in public, or talk to any man alone, including their fathers.

What we were trying to do was to keep any scandal out of the pageant. We had to protect ourselves as best we could, and that's how all the strict rules came about,"

said Godshall.

Schweitzer hospital hit by neglect

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP) - In the middle of a patch of mud stands a rectangular concrete slab, the weather beaten foundation stone of what was to be a modern hospital dedicated to the late Albert Schweitzer.

There are still hopes that the stone may serve its purpose one day. But 10 years ago today after Schweitzer's death, it stands as a forlorn symbol of the world's neglect of the jungle heritage the Nobel Prize winner left here on the western coast of Africa.

Schweitzer's own hospital continues to function, and there has even been much modernization undreamt of in the humanitarian's lifetime. But funds are running short to meet the $1,500-a-day operating costs, let alone the $15 million needed for the new building, hospital officials say.

Rivalry and intrigue among some of Schweitzer's longtime backers in Europe and America have hampered fund raising. The Gabon government has been lukewarm in its support of the institution which provides medical attention to Africans. And a promised million-dollar grant from the U.S. Agency for International Development is a mere drop in the bucket of inflation-fueled construction and operating costs.

A newly-established international foundation headed by the hospital's chief surgeon, Dr. Holm Habicht, of Tegernsee, West Germany, has taken the institution out of the hands of committees of often elderly Schweitzer admirers scattered across several continents Habicht came here with his wife in January, determined to devote his life to carrying on Schweitzer's cal and humanitarian work. Six months later he has built a new airconditioned operating theater and X-ray room, a diesel generating plant and an automatic laundry. A modern laboratory is almost completed. But some of Habicht's earlier optimism seems to have deserted him.

"The old hospital cannot go on being used," he said. "It is in horrible shape and fit only to be turned into a Schweitzer museum. It is not possible to practice modern medicine in such conditions.

'The new hospital is absolutely necessary, but we still do not know how we will finance it. I am fighting for it, but I have made up my mind that if the project cannot be realized I will leave this hospital. I cannot take the responsibility to practice modern medicine under the existing conditions for several more years.

Schweitzer believed that the best way to treat African patients was to keep them in conditions close to those of their normal lives. As a result, the wooden huts housing patients under treatment were built without windows "to keep out evil spirits," and the hospital to this day resembles an African village.

Some of the older and less sanitary huts have now been abandoned, and every room has running water and electricity. The goats and pigs Schweitzer allowed to roam the 350-acre compound on the Ogooue River have been banished. But Habicht believes the modernization must be carried much further if the Schweitzer hospital is not to be abandoned to the jungle.

'We are really needed here," he said. "If we give up the struggle, it would not be because we are not needed but because we cannot continue our work in a decent way. "I would like to make the hospital my life's work, but the longer I am here the more I am forced to doubt whether this will be possible.

Habichi and his team of 25 European doctors, nurses and technicians are all volunteers. The operating budget was badly hit. however, by spiraling local wage scales affecting the 100 African nurses and workers. Patients who have money now pay for treatment, but their contributions still provide only eight per cent of the operating budget. The hospital treats an average of 24,000 patients per year, mostly Africans. Some 1,000 major operations are performed annually and some 400 babies are born in the modern maternity clinic. There is a new dental clinic but no dental surgeon. Habicht himself performs essential dental surgery. A separate leprosy clinic houses some 800 patients and their Schweitzer, his wife and a handful of his assistants lie buried under cement crosses in the tiny cemetery overlooking the river.

The hospital director, Max Caulet, has launched a drive to collect the money to operate the hospital for the next five years.

'Therapeutic accident'

Cause of girl's death revealed

A 22-month-old Glendora girl's death last June at County-USC Medical Center has been attributed to a 'therapeutic accident' which occurred during physicians' attempts to save the child who was taken to the hospital for treatment of a head injury

The cause of death was revealed with the release of the death certificate by the Los Angeles County Coroner's Of-

The victim was Patricia Ann Branham, who died about eight hours after her admission to the hospital. An extensive post mortem was performed by coroner's doctors.

Patricia suffered a cerebral concussion when she fell from a bunk bed and struck her head, a coroner's spokesman said. The accident was at the Branham home at 19106 Armstead St. June 15.

The spokesman said the child died subsequent to a tracheotomy performed to assist her breathing following her admission to the hospital with the head injury.

Dissent sparks

Montclair okay

of housing plan

raised by two councilmen

'Big brother' criticisms

By MAE TATE PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council has approved objectives for its Community Development Act program, including a housing code enforcement project and home rehabilitation program. Only three councilmen - Ernest Rowley, Paul Jones and Nelson Gentry - supported all seven recommendations from city staff Tuesday. Mayor Harold Hayes and Councilman Tom McClure both found certain objectives objectionable and protested the "big brother" attitude that some represented.

The City of Montclair is expected to receive an estimated $90,000 in funds from the federal Community Development Act of 1974 for this year's program. The program is a three-year project to upgrade communities throughout the nation.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman said the seven objectives were to conduct a housing survey in the low to moderate income areas; upgrade and protect the east and west sides of Central Avenue between Holt Boulevard and the San Bernardino Freeway; design and implement a code enforcement program and a home repair and rehabilitation program for low to moderate income persons; rehabilitate or demolish substandard homes; develop counseling and consumer information programs to rehabilitate substandard homes (in conjunction with the Valley Association of Cities); and initiate an analysis of the feasibility of designating, appraising and designing a neighborhood park in the severe to moderate low income areas.

Wasserman pointed out that the "goals may stimulate controversy and criticism of the city staff and council. He said this would be particularly possible with the code enforcement and housing rehabilitation objectives.

McClure and Hayes both objected to a detailed code enforcement program that would require city staff to inspect the interiors of homes. The two questioned the propriety of entering each home in Montclair.

Mike Loehr, director of community development, assured the council that the code enforcement inspections would be exterior. Only if the outside of the home indicated drastic substandard conditions would inspectors enter the homes to check for interior violations.

There are more important things to do than going out looking for code violations," Hayes said. "You probably could find a code violation in nearly every home. We should deal with abandoned homes, totally deteriorated homes. This should be our priority."

McClure voiced reluctance to support another "big brother" program whereby the government pays for or subsidizes the rehabilitation of homes. He said "I'm tired of carrying others on my back. I'm paying for health care, food stamps and welfare. I'm sick of my paycheck being drained by taxes. McClure pointed out that although some assistance programs were necessary, it was not necessary to ask the working resident to continue to pay for those who did not wish to work. Rowley agreed with his two colleagues, but stated that the "goals and objectives are broad enough to cover the subject and yet the actual implementation can be narrowed down to the areas that we want to concentrate on for the work to be done.

Rowley then moved for adoption of the goals and objec-

The staff also presented a tentative budget of the Community Development Act program which included $30,166 in salaries for a housing coordinator and housing survey technicians, $53,994 for services and supplies and $5,850 for capital outlay. The services and supplies figure includes $12,704 in contingency funds.

Sun schedule is changing

You better take a second look at vour Southern California Sun schedule.

The original one will have several changes before the season is over.

For instance, the Sun was ready to play at Chicago Saturday night. But when the Chicago Winds folded earlier this week, it was decided to send the Sun to San Antonio instead Sunday night.

Obviously, there will have to be a change when the Sun is scheduled to host Chicago at Anaheim Stadium on Nov. 9.

At least the WFL is fortunate in that it had 11 teams which always gave somebody a bye. So it is simple to schedule the team with the bye against the Winds' opponent each week. But it will mean some teams will play more games than others and the schedule can't be equal. For instance, the Sun now has three league games against San Antonio while the other teams will play the Wings either one or two.

The WFL also has complicated playoff schedule which hasn't been publicized.

It is safe to say most football fans are unaware that the WFL season is divided into two halves, a summer and fall season.

Six in playoffs

Six of the 10 (at this moment) surviving teams will qualify for the playoffs. The winners of both halves in each division and the team from each division with the best overall record will advance into post-season

So it's possible to be 0-10 through the first half of the season and still make the playoffs. Or a team could cinch a playoff berth before the campaign is half over.

However, there is a benefit for having the best overall record since those two teams will receive byes in the opening round of the playoffs. There are a lot of good things about the WFL. It definitely gives more football players employment. It offers some competition for the fat National Football League. And it gives the fans not willing to travel to the Coliseum another place to watch pro football. But the league is fighting an almost impossible battle and the decision to play on weekends could prove fatal.

There is already too much going on in the world of sports every weekend and it will get much busier when the colleges and NFL get rolling.

Fans interested in attending Sun games as a group may purchase their tickets in the Pomona area by writing to Barbara Hunter at Box 251 in care of the Progress Bulletin at Pomona 91766.

Notes from here and there:

It was good to see Joe Davis being named a pre-season All American by Family Weekly Magazine, which is distributed on Sundays by the PB.

Davis, a senior offensive guard at USC, has come a long way since his days at Claremont High. He didn't even make honorable mention on our All-Valley team after his senior season but it's obvious John McKav saw his potential.

A glance at the Pacific-8 Conference football rosters shows Stanford having most of the loop's products from our area.

Stanford has senior wide receiver Ray Anderson (Bonita), senior running back Joe Baumgaertner (Damien), junior offensive tackle Rob Blanche (Claremont). sophomore safety Ron Himes (Walnut) and freshman defensive back Kent Stalwick (Claremont).

Davis is the only local graduate on the USC roster while sophomore

Ryan was scheduled to start tonight against the Texas Rangers in the concluding game of a two-game series. The Rangers won the opener Wednesday night as Tom Grieve drove in three runs with his 12th homer and two singles to help the Texans to a 5-4 victory.

"I first felt it early in the year in a game against Texas April 24," Ryan revealed. "It was diagnosed as a bone chip at that time but surgery was not recommended. It hasn't gotten any worse and I've learned to pitch in pain.

"But if surgery helps, then I'm all for it. The arm hasn't been right all Then. Rvan added with a facetious smile, "I can't think of a better way to wrap up this season. Ryan will not suit up for the remainder of the year and is expected to leave for his Alvin, Tex., home over the weekend before returning to Southern California to go under the knife. This is not an uncommon injury," said Dr. Jules Rasinski, the Angels' team physician. "If a pitcher is going to have a problem I can't think of an easier one to correct. We expect him to be as good as new next and his record fell to 3-12. He has not won since April 29 when his record was 3-1.

Hassler was chased in the second when Texas scored three times to take a 4-0 lead, two of the runs coming on Grieve's homer.

Clyde Wright, a former Angel, got the victory, his fourth in nine decisions while Steve Foucault came on in the eighth to register his eighth

Mike Hargrove also had three hits for Texas and drove in a run while Roy Howell singled twice.

Bruce Bochte's two-run double in the three-run Angel fourth was the big hit for California.

CINCINNATI - What a difference a year makes!

When the Dodgers made their final trip of the season into Cincinnati last year, the weather was sunny and cool and a World Series atmosphere prevailed. There were signs in store windows urging the Reds to beat the Dodgers. The newspapers were full of stories about the Dodgers-Reds series. The man on the street last year was wondering hopefully if the Reds could win two or sweep. And all three games were played before sellout crowds. This is 1975, not 1974, and only a plane crash or a bubonic plague epidemic could keep this year's Big Red Machine out of the playoffs. The two Cincinnati papers Wednesday didn't even mention that the Dodgers were in town until the very last paragraph of their stories. Mostly they wrote about Tuesday's win over the San Diego Padres and the accomplishments of first baseman Tony Perez. The man on the street Wednesday was talking only about Perez' feat of batting in two runs against the Padres which made him the all-time Cincy RBI leader with 1,010, breaking the record formally held by Frank Robinson.

Instead of a sellout, just 27,881 turned out Wednesday night and tonight's crowd may be smaller.

The only sign visible mentioning the Dodgers Wednesday was the one hanging forlornly outside the Terrace Hilton Hotel welcoming the hotel took that one down. Cincinnati weather is sauna-like this trip and the Reds made it even hotter for the Dodgers Wednesday night Dodger manager Walter Alston, fighting the flu bug, felt bad before the game and worse afterward. Three Dodger pitchers issued 11 walks, hit two batters, and made a ree Dodger wild pitch. There w errors and catcher Steve Yeager was charged with a passed ball which allowed a run to score. Starter Andy Messersmith departed in the middle of the Reds' 10-run fourth inning. Messersmith (15-14) was charged with nine runs (seven earned) in three and two-thirds innings. Usually possessing excellent control. Messersmith Cincinnati sent a total of 16 men to bat in the fourth, 13 of them after two were out. They got the 10 runs on doubles. But Messersmith and successor Charlie Hough each walked two batters. Hough hit one (and another the next inning) and wild pitched a run in. Rookie Jerry Royster committed the second of his two errors to let in a run. And Yeager's passed ball on a third strike let another in and that only seven hits, five singles and two runner also went on to score. The inning was delayed by a thunderstorm during which about half of the crowd left. The rest stayed around to see the Dodgers humiliated as the 10 runs constituted the biggest inning of the year for the number to five. Any combination of five Dodger losses and Reds' victories makes Cincy the official Western Division champion.

Gary Nolan (13-8) held the Dodgers scoreless until the sixth inning. By that time the score was 12-0. The Reds scored twice in the first without benefit of a hit. Messersmith walked two and he and Royster each committed an error.

The Dodgers got nine hits, the same number as the Reds. But the Angelenos left 10 runners stranded to bring their total in the three games played in this road trip to 32.

Alston used 19 players and Sparky Anderson of the Reds 17 for a total of Happiest man in Riverfront Stadium had to be the sore-armed Nolan who was operated on May 13 of last year. "In spring training, to be frank, I didn't have any idea of how many pitches I'd throw let alone how many games I was going to win," Nolan replied when asked how many he thought he'd win.

Cincinnati can wrap up the pennant on this homestand which ends Sunday against the Giants. "I'd like to do that, but I'm not pushing it.' Anderson said. Sparky actually is thinking more about the playoffs than clinching the pennant this weekend. "I'm glad the Dodgers are pitching (Doug Rau) a lefthander tonight," he said. "I want to see as many of them as possible. The Pirates have a lot of lefthanders

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Dick Vermeil called in a track coach for help with his UCLA football team because he thought he might have overworked his football team.

"I think I might have worked 'em too hard last year," said the 38-yearold Bruin head man in a moment of candor as he spoke to Pacific-8 Skywriters. He said he wanted to make sure the players were in shape and toward that goal "I might have put 'em on the game field from time to time a little tired.

"I felt I was making a mistake. I felt in a rut," said the man who was an assistant under three pro coaches known for rugged practice sessions-George Allen, Tommy Prothro and Chuck Knox. "So I looked around the UCLA campus for help-we've got experts in every field here"-and assistant track coach Tom Tellez came to the rescue.

"Tom taught me more about physical conditioning and physics than I'd ever thought I'd learn,' Vermeil said. "He's just great with the players. He's out there every morning with a conditioning program that has made every one of our players faster."

'He's taken over our entire conditioning program and they're moving fast out there. It's amazing to see how many big people just didn't know how to run properly. The coach added that he now splits the squad up in the morning and the idea has helped the younger players gain experience because of the personal coaching they get. Vermeil was, however, so excited about his 1975 veer offense that he spent most of his time talking about it and the man he called "the best football player in America right behind the center." 'We're a running team; we know that, but we think we can pass better this year than we did last. And John Sciarra is the man who'll do it. He's we know we'll face a lot of third-andlong situations. "I'm running the veer because I want to make sure I give the guy who can do it all the opportunity to do it."

got a great arm, an NFL arm, and Vermeil said his veer caused some confusion because of its newness last year but still produced good yardage. But we were sloppy and sometimes disorganized. The ball was on the ground a lot, but it won't be this "We've got a graduate assistant out there in every practice session.

into shape, too. But the 5-foot-10, 178-pound Sciarra is the key to the offense. 'The nice thing about John is that he's gonna be 25 per cent better on game day than he is on the practice field, and he's a fine player on the practice field.

Vermeil opened his remarks to the touring writers with: "I'd like to say we're going to the Rose Bowl, but right now the Rose Bowl is not very important. UCLA has only one bowl game right now and that's Sept. 13 against Iowa State. I don't know how many teams can beat us, but the team that does better strap it on. They're gonna need it.

He noted that his offensive and defensive lines would be massive and mentioned a few by name: guards Phil McKinnely, at 260 pounds, and Randy Cross, 246; tackles Jack DeMartinis, 273, and Bob Reyes, 252.

By splitting the squad, he added, a host of freshmen have made rapid development. "Bruce Davis, for example, is only a freshman. He's 6 feet 61/2 and he weighs 275 and he'll probably play in our opener.'

The veer produced a 6-3-2 record for Vermeil in his first season at UCLA and he said he wasn't pleased. But he likes the veer. "The veer is a running offense and that's what we hope we'll do best. But we'll face some third-and-long situations this year and that's why we want to develop the drop-back "However, we don't want to work so hard on the passing that it becomes a 50-50 thing, so we do both average and neither one great.'

The 5-9, 192-pound Zaby was praised for his toughness. "Wendell knows he'll have to beat out someone, but Zaby will be hard to outwork. He's a tremendous worker." The 5-10, 185-pound Ayers was called "pound for pound...the best blocker I've ever seen."

The top wide receivers are fleet Wally Henry and lanky Norm Anderson. The 5-9 Henry "has been much better catching the ball and he can run like mad." Anderson, the top wide receiver at 6-2 and 167, caught

27 passes for 480 yards last year and scored six times. However, he suffered a compound thumb dislocation a week ago and had the stitches removed Wednesday. He will begin workouts again in

At tight end is "the finest athlete on the whole team, maybe in the state." said Vermeil. "Jerry Robinson can do everything. I don't think there's a position, with the exception of the center of the line, that he can't play." Robinson, at 6-3 and 218 pounds was a fantastic basketball player in Northern California, he runs the 100 in 9.7 and he can catch the ball and block like crazy. He'd be'an incredible linebacker if we put him there. Vermeil was enthused about his

"The discipline of our program is beginning to show and we have the attitude of a squad that can win. The kids are getting to know the veer better-it isn't even close to last year- and I hope that I, as a head coach, can do a hell of a lot better job than I did last year. We have a lot of weaknesses, but we have enough good football players to be competitive with anyone on a given Saturday.

The University of Miami graduate joined the Raiders in 1960 when the American Football League was born and has started all 210 of their regular season games in the AFL and NFL. The 210 consecutive games is an NFL record shared by Otto and the Raiders' George Blanda.

"The Raiders didn't tell me what to do. I'm not being forced to retire," said Otto, who added that the team did not put him on waivers.

'Bama judge rules in favor of Bryant

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - "The big thing is that it will even it up for everybody." Coach Paul Bryant of Bear' Alabama said afer a federal judge revised new rules on the size of football teams Wednesday night. The judge threw out an Aug. 15 ruling adopted at a special convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association that limited travel squads to 48 members and home squads to 60.

This rule, said U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer, was contrary to the NCAA's bylaws which indicate that all rules "be petition.

Pointer changed it to allow each opponent to field 60 players in a game and extended his temporary order to all NCAA ing the 48-60 rule. members, although the suit had been brought by the University of Alabama. His ruling is effective all squad limitations be thrown out, contending that its practice of playing well over 60 in most games had helped in recruiting and had reduced injuries.

The NCAA had adopted the limitation as an economy measure. Pointer said, "The evidence on economy is tenuous," but also ruled out Alabama's contention that the rule would force it to break verbal contracts with the signees

NCAA rule has hurt their morale.

He said that under the 48-60 rule, approximately 25 to 30 Alabama squad members who have had the chance to play would have no opportunity to do so.

Bryant said that deaths from the heat, especially in the South, "are roing to happen this year as sure as I'm sitting here" if the 48 rule stood

A team needs three kickers, three quarterbacks and three centers, he said, and "it would be inhuman to put a man out there for the length of time he'd have to be there under the 48 rule. A team would be less than two deep and that ain't no way to have a

Otto wasn't the only "name" to be dropped from NFL rosters Wednesday as teams struggled to meet the 49-player limit.

Defensive back Earlie Thomas of the Buffalo Bills, safety Mike Hull of the Washington Redskins and Tim Berra of the Baltimore Colts, son of baseball Hall of Famer Yogi Berra who recently was dropped as manager of the New York Mets, were among the veterans cut.

New York Jets backup quarterback Al Woodall, and New England Patriots running back Leon Crosswhite were placed on the injured reserve list, meaning they will miss the entire 1975 season.

Also put on the injured reserve list were running back Bob Burns of the Jets and linebacker Stu O'Dell of the Redskins.

Others cut included safety Mike Fink by the Jets: quarterback Ken Polke and running back Ed Williams, New England; defensive tackle Maulty Moore and wide receiver Al Dodd. Miami: Dan Rhodes, Baltimore, and defenssive end Marty Imhof and guard Fred Stuart, Washington.

Two trades Wednesday sent veteran guard Jim Arneson from the Dallas Cowboys to the Cleveland Browns and wide receiver Bob Grim from the New York Giants to the Chicago Bears for defensive end Dave Gallagher. The Cowboys received an undisclosed draft choice for Grim started his NFL career with the Minnesota Vikings and was involved in the 1972 trade with the Giants that returned quarterback Fran Tarkenton to Minnesota. Gallagher was the Bears' second selection in the first round of the 1974 NFL col lege draft.

Eagles need line help

PHILADELPHIA (AP) The exhibition games so far have indicated that Philadelphia Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack hasn't solved his offensive line dilemma, and thus the running game is still far shot of what's needed to contend in the National Football League.

The Eagles can't hope to figure in the NFL National Football Conference East race against the likes of St. Louis, Dallas and Washington until they can balance their attack Quarterbacks Roman Gabriel and Mike Boryla are almost helpless as opponents set their defenses against the pass, daring the Eagles to run.

McCormack is still optimistic. He's not going as far as he did last year when he predicted the Eagles would make the playoffs. But the former Washington assistant believes he has a better football team than the one that finished fourth in the conference last year with a 7-7 record. There was a ray of hope for McCormack in the 30-20 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals when, for the first time, the Eagles showed some cohesion in the running attack But McCormack was smart enough to realize

that the Bengals used two rookie linebackers most of the way and experimented with other young players in their defensive alignment.

McCormack is cognizant of the fact that his team could indeed be better and not match that .500 record. Philadelphia plays one of the toughest schedules in the NFL. It could cost Mc-Cormack his job if the Eagles don't show improvement over 1974. Owner Len Tose is running out of patience.

Not only do the Eagles play St. Louis. Dallas and Washington twice each, but outside the conference they have Miami, Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Denver, all contenders in their divisions. The improved New York Giants (twice) and San Francisco and the Chicago Bears complete the 14-game card.

The running game is one of three areas McCormack marked for improvement as he wheeled and dealed this winter, trading young quarterback John Reaves and a future draft pick to acquire 270-pound offensive tackle Stan Walters. Walters has a reputation for being a strong blocker up front. He dropped Steve Smith and Roy Kirksey from last year's offensive front and switched Tom Luken to right guard. McCormack picked up running back Art Malone from Atlanta, and John Tarver from New England. He also got speedster James McAlister from Oakland, giving the club its first outside threat since the days of Timmy Brown in the 1960s. He has Tom Sullivan and Po James from last year. These backs can run, but they need some daylight.

Kicking around

With ADRIAN MERCADO & WILLY KEO

Ten years ago AYSO began operations with 9 teams Last season AYSO celebrated its 10th Anniversary with 2.699 teams. This season AYSO will officially expand to 11 states including Hawaii. AYSO's Board of Directors, under the leadership of President Hans Stierle, has done an admirable job.

There are some questions being asked of the BOD. however, that need answering. For example, what is AYSO doing about the CIF eligibility problem which sees youth being used as pawns and their constitutional rights violated? BOD members, Don Dunne and Larry Littleton, have not communicated to the Executive Membership any progress or lack thereof.

Then there is the question as to why the Director of Coaching was replaced without the approval of the executive membership and relegated to the new position of head coach of the AYSO team. After getting the team ready for its German tour, why was the head coach removed from the team after the son of a BOD member was cut from said team?

There may be good reasons for these actions on the part of AYSO's BOD, and several others may be chalked off as trivial, but the fact remains that if the Regional Commissioners do not take interest in the activities of the BOD. the system of checks and balances will cease to exist. A lack of communication resolves nothing but could serve to tarnish countless hours of unselfish dedication and an enviable record of success.

Local AYSO officials have put out a call for volunteer coaches and referees. September first marked the official date for local regions to mobilize for the coming season. All indications are that another record number of players will enroll. AYSO officials are faced with the possibility of having to curtail the number of teams if not enough adults volunteer. No experience is required as clinics will be held to familiarize all new coaches and referees with this fascinating kicking game.

Coach Dieter Dammeier of the Claremont Stars (age 12-13), member of the Pacific Coast Soccer League (PSL) will add another team to the league. His second team will consist of boys age 10 and 11. The major tryout will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday at El Roble Jr. H.S. For more information call 626-2809

Pomona AYSO players who may wish to register again for next season may do so by contacting their former coaches. Registration fee will be $12 for the first child, $20 for two children in the same family and a maximum of $25 for three or more children of the same family. Boys and girls may participate. General signups will be held on September 18, 19, and 20.

INTERNATIONAL IS THE WORD FOR SOC-CER: A hodge-podge of scheduling found our National team opposing Mexico's probable World Cup squad in Mexico City's Azteca Stadium and on same day just 50 miles up the road in Toluca our Olympic hopefuls took on Mexico's Olympic team. The resulting defeats for the American teams was not unexpected in the face of a number of obstacles. The main deterrent is always the same . . . that our vast geographical setup is not conducive to getvers from our East and West Coasts together for practice sessions. Add to this the reluctance of the NASL owners to free its selected players for international games during league campaigns. The NASL pays their salaries and thus controls the action of our top eligible players who must be U.S. citizens. Bruce Hudson, pride of St. Louis U. champs, declined to sign with the St. Louis Stars of the NASL because they would not agree to allow him to join the U.S. selections upon call, so he signed with the Rhode Island Oceaneers of the American League. Chris Bahr of Penn State all-America fame and son of Walter Bahr of the 1950 U.S. World Cup team finds a double problem in getting loose from the Philly Atoms. He is also field goal specialist for Penn State and finds it nearly impossible to fit into the U.S. lineup. His sudden appearance for the U.S. in the return game vs Bermuda's Olympic team provided the two goals which put the U.S. in the next bracket vs Mexico. That bubble burst last week when the U.S. Olympic team was inundated in Toluca's 8712 elevation by 8-0, and the return game at sea level in Wilmington, Delaware by a more honorable 4-2 defeat. No tears for the U.S. Elimination was inevitable in the challenges of the altitude problems and unavilability of some of the better American players. Mexico goes on to face the Cuba-Jamaica survivor.

Our National team took part in a 4-team invitational in Mexico City where the elevation was ONLY 7242, and lost to Costa Rica 3-1, to Argentina 6-0, and to Mexico's selection by 2-0. The three visiting countries all play at near sea level normally and the title again went to

Cooper sends Birds reeling

By Associated Press

Cecil Cooper had this feeling, and about an hour later he sent the Baltimore Orioles reeling.

Cooper, a young batting star who has been overlooked in the hoopla over Boston rookie sensations Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, got the notion late in Tuesday night's American League East showdown between the Red Sox and the Baltimore Orioles that something big was going to

'I'm not a home run hitter," says Cooper. "But I was in the clubhouse about the seventh or eighth inning and I told Reggie Cleveland and Luis Tiant that I was going to hit one.

"I just felt like I would."

He did, and he picked the right time for it. Cooper's blast leading off the 10th inning broke up a sparkling pitching duel between Boston's Rick Wise and Baltimore's Jim Palmer and gave the Red Sox a 3-2 victory, stretching their lead over the Orioles to seven games.

What does Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver think of his club's prospects for catching the Bosox?

'The're one game worse than they were before tonight," he replied. We'll just have to wait and see.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees blanked the Detroit Tigers 8-0, the Cleveland Indians whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 11-3, the Kansas City Royals edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 10 innings and the Texas Rangers trimmed the California Angels 5-4. Oakland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Cooper now has 13 home runs, but he didn't hit No. 1 until June 27. Normally a first baseman, he's batting 352 as Boston's designated hitter, and that's tops among the league's DHs.

Does he frequently make home run predictions?

"No, not often," he answered with a smile. "I don't think about it much. And when I came to bat in the 10th, I wasn't thinking home run at that point."

Instead of home run, he was thinking fastball. Palmer had started him with a fastball each time, so he figured what was

He looked for a fastball, got it and deposited it against a painted area beyond the right field fence for the winning run.

Despite having delivered the decisive blow in what game, if not a crucial one, Cooper was calm afterwards.

"I don't want to sound cocky, but I never take things too seriously," the 24-year-old lefthanded hitter said. "We could afford to lose these two games. If we did. I wasn't going to stand around and worry about it.

Wise, meanwhile, scattered eight hits and did not allow a walk in raising his record to 188. He is 11-2 since June 22, and has provided the pitching spark for Boston's pennant drive.

"It was a good win because we beat a pitcher like Jim Palmer, which is not easy to do," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson. "It makes us all feel a little extra special."

Palmer held the Red Sox hitless for 4 2-3 innings and finished with a sevenhitter, striking out 10.

An unusual wildness streak saw Palmer issue four successive walks with two out in the second inning for Boston's first run. The Orioles went ahead in the sixth on Lee May's tworun homer, but Boston tied it in the seventh on Rico Petrocelli's RBI single.

Orioles Manager Earl Weaver was upset over a play in the fourth inning where Boston second baseman Denny Doyle caught the ball momentarily, then dropped it. The Baltimore runner was called out.

Yankees 8, Tigers 0 Catfish Hunter, 19-13, tossed a five-hitter for his 26th complete game of the season for the Yankees, and Thurman Munson backed him with four runs batted in, including a tworun homer.

Hunter needs only one more victory to become the third man in AL history to win 20 or more games five consecutive seasons, joining Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty

Plays biggest match Eddie Dibbs makes bid

die Dibbs, a feisty little pepper pot from Miami Beach, played the most important match of his career today when he steped in with the heavyweights at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. 'I feel I'm playing the best tennis of my life right now," said Dibbs Wednesday night. "I thought that since they changed the surface from grass to clay I would do all right here Now I think I can win this tournament. I really do. "This is the best I've ever played. If I don't do it

Dibbs makes his bid for glory in a quarter-final match against 19-yearold Swedish star Bjorn Borg seeded fifth. The match opened today's card on the center court at the West Side Tennis Club. Dibbs has played Borg. one of the tournament's favorites, twice and lost both times, once on

"I'm gonna have to be more aggressive against Borg this time." he said. "I may come to net more. I think I can beat him.

Dibbs. a 24-year-old claycourt specialist, buzzed through the early rounds here, losing just one of 10 sets against four opponents, behind a ferocious two-fisted backhand and a tight-lipped determination to run down every ball.

This is the farthest he's ever gone in the Open but he's now awed to be in with the likes of Jimmy Connors, Ilie Nastase and Borg.

The quarters are nothing," he said. "I mean, they're all right, but since I've gone this far I feel I can go all the way. Like I say, I think I can win this tournament.

Dibbs' last victory was a straightset romp over Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe, who plays his best tennis on grass. Most people thought it was an upset. Not Dibbs.

He was the favorite because he won Wimbledon," said the chunky former All-American at Miami University, "and because he's got a lot bigger name than me. But I wasn't surprised. I thought I was going to win all the time.

The only thing that surprised me was that I won so easily.

Dibbs was expected to have his hands full against the blondhaired Borg, a youngster with all the strokes. Borg has dropped just one set so far, that to Australian veteran Rod Laver. Borg won this year's French Open on clay.

The Dibbs-Borg showdown is the first of four men's quarterfinal matches on tap today. Connors met Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia.

Nastase played Manuel Orantes of Spain and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina went against Chile's Jaime.Fill-

In women's play Wednesday, topseed Chris Evert continued her awesome display with a 6-2, 6-1 romp over Australian Kerry Melville Reid. The 20-year-old Floridian has now won 82 straight matches on clay and has dropped just eight games in four matches here en route to the

"I have to admit it, I felt a little pressure out there today," Miss Evert said. "I'm sure the next match I'll be nervous

Chrissie will go against her doubles partner and best friend in the semis, 18-year-old Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia. Miss Navratilova was impressive in a 6-2. 6-4 victory over Australian ace Margaret Court in Wednesday's featured night match.

It's been a long time since I've played so well." she said. "I played so well tonight I expect every ball to go in. But Chrissie is a completely different ball game.

"I know how to play her, but it all depends on how well I can do it.

Evonne Goolagong, the 24-year-old blithe spirit from Australia who doesn't believe the dam has burst until her ears get wet, survived a scare to slip by Japanese player Kazuko Sawamatsu 7-6, 7-5. She came from a 2-4 deficit in the first set, staving off set point with a forehand that hit the top of the net and trickled over, 2-5 disadvantage in the second, winning the final five games with the loss of only five points.

tight end Harley Stark of Chaffey High is the sole representative at UCLA.

Up north, tailback Wayne Moses (San Dimas) is getting ready for his junior season at Washington. A teammate is back Mike Vicino, a former Hacienda League foe at Royal Oak.

Oregon has Teddy Farmer, the fullback from Mt. San Antonio College while California, Oregon State and Washington State don't have the honor of being represented.

Local players at Western Athletic Conference schools include linebacker Joe Hillstock (Claremont) at Arizona State; guard Ken Brown (Pomona), quarterback Steve Myer (MSAC) and flanker Gil Stewart (MSAC) at New Mexico; tackle Walter Kaufman (Chaffey) and wide receiver John McIntyre (Walnut) at Utah; and split end Don Rees (Bonita) at Wyoming.

Cal State Fullerton opens its football season Saturday night at Fresno State with flanker Joe Fabian, a transfer from Cal Poly, tight end Bruce Abraham of Claremont and middle guard Chuck Shrewsberry of MSAC in the starting lineup. Tackle Dave Little of Claremont is also on the Titans' roster.

Long Beach State also opens Saturday when the 49ers host Southwest Louisiana at 7:30 p.m. Offensive guard Jerrell Smith, a transfer from MSAC and a Garey High product, is battling for starting job. One of Long Beach's top prospects is sophomore defensive tackle Jeff Lyall, who grew up in Diamond Bar before moving to San Jose for his high school career.

Rick Reed, the smooth highscoring guard at Azusa Pacific College, is considered a longshot prospect to make the new San Diego Sails of the American Basketball Association. He led APC to the NAIA District Three title in 1974.

Western Harness opens 30th season

INGLEWOOD Western Harness Racing begins its 30th season of racing tonight at Hollywood Park - two weeks later than originally scheduled - with more than $3.5 million in purses expected to attract the finest trotters and pacers in the nation, including the sport's new super-star Nero.

The 13-week meet will be conducted on a Tuesdaythrough-Saturday night basis through Oct. 25. Sixnight-a-week racing will be programmed from Oct. 27 through closing night Monday, Dec. 8.

Post time nightly will be 7:45 p.m. with exacta wagering on the first, fourth, seventh and ninth

Highlighting the 1975 season are seven major stakes, including three $100,000 races and an attractive schedule of special promotional nights.

The U.S. Pacing Classic, a three-race, cross-country series for older pacers, launches the WHR stakes program Sept. 12 with track record-holder Handle With Care, two-time defending champion Sir Stanford resumes its football series with Army this fall after a four year hiatus. The Cards whipped the Cadets 38-3 in 1971 in the last meeting between the two teams. The series, which began in 1928, now stands at 4-3 in the Cardinals' favor.

Compared with today's recording industry, that's peanuts.

Traditionally, it was forbidden to disclose how much an artist signed for, until Paul McCartney's $8 million contract with Capitol made the trade papers. MCA Records matched that amount to re-sign Elton John, while the Rolling Stones settled for a paltry $1 million to switch from London Records to RSO, distributed by Atlantic

MOR laureate Neil Diamond landed $5 million from Columbia but the grandslam is Stevie Wonder's $13 million deal with Motown - minus his 20 per cent royalty cut.

Considering priorities for a moment, Albert Einstein, at the conclusion of an apocalyptic life, left his heirs a home in Princeton and less than $50,000.

Lou Yeager, one of the researchers cum perpetrators of 1969's "Paul Mc-Cartney is dead" hoax, now says he has evidence the Beatles will reform later this year. He predicts they'll finish this decade reigning in the same unassailable throne they surrendered with their breakup five years ago. The Beatles usurping Elton John, Stevie Wonder or the Bay City Rollers? A piece of cake.

Judge refuses to order loading of Russ grain

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A federal udge refused on Saturday to order longshoremen to load grain on a Soviet-bound ship. He said no order was needed yet because a strike had not been called.

"Until a strike actually occurs, I see no reason to issue a restraining order." U.S. Dist. Judge Alvin Rubin told shipper. "Come see me when you have heard."

The New Orleans Steamship Association had asked for a restraining order based on what they called threats of a strike by local officials of the International Longshoremens Association

Wilfred Dailet Sr., president of ILA Local 1419, has said he will instruct his members not to load grain in accordance with union policy at other Gulf Coast ports. A federal judge in Texas ordered the longshoremen to load the grain after they had gone on strike.

Airline defers 5-plane order

SEATTLE (AP) - The Boeing Co.'s super-stretched 727 trijet, originally scheduled for completion in 1978, has been set aside after United Airlines' announcement that it will defer indefinitely a decision to buy the new aircraft. United, the nation's largest airline, had planned to place an initial order this fall for 50 planes costing a total of about $600 million. United Chairman Edward E. Carlson gave no indication when a decision might

Gunmen get $53,000 in bank holdup

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Three gunmen have escaped with more than $53,000 in what police described as the largest Los Angeles bank robbery in recent years.

The trio. described as "very professional," held up the American Pacific State Bank in Sunland on Thursday, emptying the tellers' cages and taking $48,000 from the

The men "took complete control of the bank, cut all the telephone wires and warned us all that anyone who tried to set off an alarm would be shot," said bank manager William Peiffer. No one was injured.

Theft of U.S. arms reported

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Pentagon study says enough weapons, ammunition and explosives disappeared from U.S. military bases around the world between 1971 and 1974 to outfit approximately 8,000

The report also raised the possibility that the outlawed Provisonal wing of the Irish Republican Army and other terrorist groups may have received some of the stolen mate-

The report, conducted by the Army Physical Security Review Board and released Monday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said approximately 6,800 weapons and 1.2 million rounds of smallarms ammunition or explosives were lost.

S. Korean calls for removal of U.S. A-weapons

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - A South Korean opposition leader today demanded that the United States remove its nuclear arms from South Korea to prevent a nuclear holocaust and ease tension on the Korean Yang Il-dong, head of the Democratic Unification party, was commenting on last week's warning by visiting Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger that nuclear arms might be used as a last resort to repel an attack by North Korea. However, Schlesinger said he thought that such an attack or the need to use nuclear weapons was most unlikely.

Yang said although he believed Schlesinger was making "strategic warnings" to forestall a Communist invasion, he was "appalled" at the possibility of a nuclear war that might result in the destruction of the Korean people.

Israel to lobby for U.S. aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Israel is sending three of its top officials here to lobby for a massive aid program and to argue for congressional approval of the plan to station American technicians in the Sinai Peninsula demilitarized zone.

the Legislature solve the "malpractice" crisis by e hope so. Because that's when they're scheduled to recess. On May 19th Governor Brown called a special session of the Legislature to reform "malpractice" laws. That was over 3 months ago.

Since then, more than 80 "malpractice" bills have been introduced. But no reforms have been enacted.

Despite the efforts of many conscientious legislators, the situation is becoming worse, not better.

As the weeks have slipped away, even more increases in the cost of "malpractice" insurance have been announced. Premiums are tripling and quadrupling.

Some doctors are being forced to pay up to $25,000 a year for protection against "malpractice" lawsuits, whether justified or not.

As doctors, we have been following the situation closely. We recognize the need for avoiding hasty action. But after more than 3 months of study, debate, and investigation, the time has come for action.

Otherwise, we are afraid that California's health-care system will become a shambles, as more and more doctors are forced to limit or discontinue their practices.

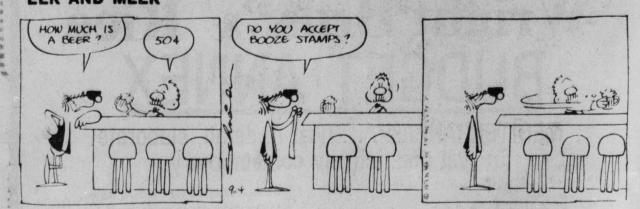

We believe it is reasonable to expect positive action before the Legislature recesses September 15.

If you agree, we urge you to wire or phone your legislators and Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr., State Capitol, Sacramento 95814. Tell them you support the reforms recommended by your doctor.

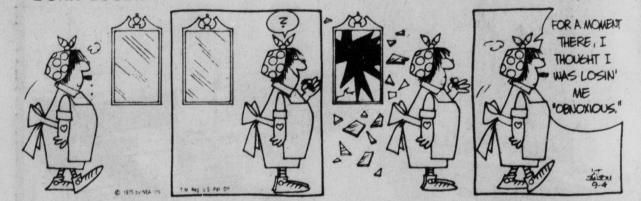

We need your help. The Doctors of the California Medical Association

Business brief

NEW YORK (AP) Some Wall Street watchers believe a plan unveiled Friday by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Co. to operate its own odd-lot stock market for listed securities will start a new trend of brokerage price competition in which only the biggest houses will survive, the Wall Street Journal reported to-day.

The giant brokerage house informed the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange it plans to operate its odd lot market - for trades of less than 100 shares -in stages beginning Oct. 1.

The result of the plan, according to analysts. would be to invite competition in odd lots from other brokerage houses, and the Journal says already Shearson Hayden Stone, Inc., and Paine Webber. Jackson & Curtis said they would seriously consider making their own markets in odd-lot dealings if the Merrill Lynch proposal is agreed to by the two major New York exchanges.

group of 186 prominent scientists has blasted the pretentious claims of astrological charlatans," saying there is no scientific basis for widespread belief that the stars foretell events and influence people's lives.

Eighteen Nobel Prize winners and the others said they were prompted to sign the disclaimer because of the continued acceptance of astrology.

"We are especially disturbed by the continued uncritical dissemination of astrological charts, forecasts and horoscopes by the media and by otherwise reputable newspapers, magazine and book publishers," says the statement in a special issue of the Humanists magazine.

"This can only contribute to the growth of irrationalism and obscurantism. We believe the time has come to challenge directly and forcefully, the pretentious claims of astrological charlatans."

The statement was originally drafted by Bart J. Bok, former president of the American Astronomical Society and professor emeritus at the University of Arizona.

"It is deplorable that so many newspapers now print this daily nonsense,' Bok wrote in a separate article. "At the start, the regular reading is sort of a fun game, but it often ends up as a mighty serious business. The steady and ready availability of astrological predictions can over many years have insidious influence on a personal person's judgment.

But a professional astrologer, R. Donald Papon. dismissed the criticism saying. "This debate has been going on for centuries.

'You can always get a number of scientists to this," said Papon, director of the Academy of Mystic Arts in New York. "But there are 50 million Americans very much involved in astrology, 1,250 out of 1.500 daily newspapers carry an astrology column, and six universities, including the New School, have had academic courses in astrology.

Papon said he has taught a course in astrology at the New School for Social Research in New York.

BALTIMORE (AP) -Officials at Johns Hopkins University have dropped the school's 61-year-old honor system because they say it was unenforceable.

Dr. Steven Muller, university president, said the action was "grudgingly" taken because of a dramatic rise in the incidence of cheating and the unwillingness of students to report the cheaters.

A brief item disclosing the move in this month's issue of the Johns Hopkins Magazine said a survey found about one-third of the university's undergraduates had cheated.

Abuses of the honor system had "caused an internal convulsion" at Hopkins, the magazine ar-

The honor code, and a commission to hear cases of alleged cheating were started at Hopkins in 1914. Under the system. students themselves were responsible for reporting violations of the honor code by other students.

In recent years, the Honor Commission has handled an average of eight cases a year and explusions for cheating were rare, school officials said.

Muller said a new system would be submitted for approval and faculty groups this fall. He said it will require professors to closely supervise final exams, students will also be required to sit in alternate seats and plagarism will be more clearly defined.

What is needed, Papon continued, "is more scientists who will open their own scientific biases to allow astrologers to communicate with them.

Both astrology and astronomy use the same fundamental data," he said, and to criticize astrology "is no way to prove the invalidity of

They would like to believe in a destiny predetermined by astral forces beyond their control. However, we must all face the world and we must realize that our futures lie in ourselves and not in the

The statement said that astrology was part of the magical world view of the ancient people who had no concept of the distance from the earth to the stars and planets.

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer In business some women are so flushed with victory, they haven't learned selfcontrol and may find it impossible to work with anybody if they project a dominating personality.

So says petite Margery Hurst, often called Britain's most successful businesswoman. Hitching her enormous energies 30 vears ago to an employment agency for typists and others, she parlayed her tiny Brook Street Business Bureau in London into a public company of 220 branches over the world with a value of several million pounds on the London Stock Exchange.

In the last 12 years she has opened six branches in the United States, and in addition to secretarial, catering, banking and retailing jobs has installed an area for executive women in the $9,000-plus bracket.

An indefatigable businesswoman - she travels more than 100,000

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs.

Curtis L. Ward have es-

miles a year - she feels her own experience proves women, too, can become millionaires in business. But they must learn the difference between leadership and dominance, she insists.

Showing how much you know can get you thoroughly disliked in any job, she cautions women executives and others. If you are good, your work will show it.

Why keep swanking about how much more you know than others. Learn to listen. Others may have a viewpoint," she advises. 'Everybody likes a quiet worker with a lot of strength behind her.'

Women should be ready for all the challenges now opening up for them but they shouldn't be tempted to waste their talents and abilities by rising above levels at which they can perform best, she says. Experience helps provide competence that results in steadiness, capability and common sense in management. Then, too, any failure by a woman is likely to be chronicled as a consequence of being a woman, she cautions. Women should be guarded, too, in emplying "womanly traits," using passionate arguments, rather than logical ones.

If a woman is rejected for some reason, she must make an effort to establish why, not attribute it to mere male chauvinism. If it is chauvinism, the challenge of communication comes in. She must use her abilities to open the door to a mind that is closed, insists Mrs. Hurst, who passes on such advice in her many speeches to business groups.

In business the tide is turning even for older women, she explains.

"The dollies are going out of fashion because older women are likely to make a job their life - especially if they are single. The labor turnover is less

- the older woman will stay five years to the younger person's one. Then, too, a young person is likely to divide her time - she has too many things on her mind.

Shouting loudly in a business office may get attention - the wrong kind, says this former British army welfare officer, who learned how to cope even as she wriggled in red tape during World War II. Office dissension can cut business profits as much as 70 per cent, she has found in her own offices.

Employers muddle, frighten and confuse workers by shouting at them and they invite their loathing, she says.

As for English secretaries, who are often in demand in the United States, it is because "the best come here, it isn't because they are better," she contends.

'For example, I think the American secretary leads the world in tact. She will always protect her boss, no matter what, and you will always get the impression that he would really have liked to have talked to you or seen you, if only he were available, and not far away or dying or whatever you might be

She is not always rewarded in kind, however. A boss will say "I want a secretary who is good at shorthand and typing, but she doesn't need brains." It invites Mrs. Hurst's wrath.

Bosses could improve their role by beginning the day with pleasantries to their secretaries, inquiring about their mothers, boyfriends or whatever before turning to them with the inevitable "take a let-

Climbing up the ladder begins on the first job, she tells her new employes. The first step is letting the employer know you want

"I like this job. I can work well for you," is a good way to approach it. The first woman underwriter to step on the floor of Lloyds of London, the famed insurance group, Mrs. Hurst began her agency after leaving the army and finding herself - separated from her husband - with a baby three weeks old. She began typing at home, opened a public typing office and then got a license to conduct an employment agency. Her second husband, Eric. handles the finances of the company.

League to study jury

The League of Women Voters of West San Bernardino County has planned a discussion unit meeting at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 11 at the Ontario Public Library. This will be the start of a study of the Grand Jury of San Bernardino County. The local study of the league. "The structures functions and powers of the Grand Jury of San Bernardino County" was adopted at its annual meeting. Members recently visited San Bernardino to gather information about the county grand jury.

The discussion will cover such questions as: "Do you know the duties of the Grand Jury?", "How does one become a grand juror?". "How long does a grand juror serve?". "Are they paid?", "What is the functions of the grand jury?" and "Is the grand jury effective?"

The public is invited to attend. For further information, call 982-5841.

Joyce Brothers He's a monster

DEAR DR. BROTH-ERS: My brother married a monster who picks at him all day long. Neither my sister nor I can understand what he sees in her. This woman, incidentally, thinks of herself as the perfect, thoughtful wife. She says women are naturally more thoughtful than men and she apparently thinks of herself as representing all the best in the female sex. My brother's first wife died and he is now in his 60s. This new marriage is quite a switch because he was always dominating with his former wife, but this one makes all the decisions. -

Dear G.M.: I know it isn't easy for in-laws to do. but try to remember that this is his marriage, his wife, and maybe he loves her just the way she is. What one individual may see in another is often a mystery to onlookers. Sometimes this is heightened by the fact that a couple may behave one way in the presence of others and quite another way when they are alone.

DRAPERY CLEANING DON'S CLEANERS

1773 N. Garey - 622-1505

What may appear to be a henpecked husband to you may merely be a man who is changing roles. Often when a man reaches his late middle years, he is quite willing to allow a woman to be the more aggressive one, to make decisions, and to take over the role he always played in the past. Many men and women welcome this role reversal

University of Michigan psychologist Dr. David Gutmann notes that at about 55, many men stop seeing the world as something they can conquer and control. Instead, they view it as something which controls them. Autonomus, aggressive and self-reliant in early adulthood, they become more accommodating and restrained. Many men don't really like the role of active mastery, Dr. Gutman contends, and it takes a lot of praise and prestige to make them keep it for 30 or so years.

Being a good providerprotector has required many men to become competitive and aggressive just as being a mother and the source of emotional security has required women to be gentle, sensitive and obliging. Your sister-in-law may have been very passive earlier in her life.

Studies show that some men are attracted to dominating women. They would feel emotionally insecure if their wives didn't take the initiative in making decisions and tell them what to do. The husband may complain but if this is the role he's chosen, the chances are he enjoys it and so does his spouse. Certainly, there's nothing wrong with this and many happy couples follow this pattern. Your sister-in-law is wrong, however, in her view that women are more thoughtful than men. This isn't necessarily true and certainly isn't something built into women. It could be argued that the reverse is true. Because society has tended to limit women's lives and their choices in life, their thoughts are more likely to be concentrated on themselves. As women are allowed more freedom, more responsibility in making larger decisions, they will tend to enlarge their sphere of interest to include much broader topics, and they will think less of themselves and their narrow, prescribed

Try to be tolerant of your brother's choice and lend your support to their marriage. If you try to understand her, you may see other aspects of her character that you may find more attractive.

MODEST!

Brag a little

You can't afford to be modest. After all, you're in business to sell. You have to tell buyers what you have to offer, why it pays them to do business with you, why you and your service and prices and products and sales policies are best.

The most economically effective way you can brag to your prospective customers is with a display advertisement in the Progress Bulletin.

CALL 622-1201 TODAY

and let one of our expert display advertising sales staff assist you in planning your advertising program.
